{Please stop treating me worse than an animal} I want [Protective custody] for multiple [reasons] - the most obvious being ① I'm locked in a facility w/ a bunch of violent criminals ② The guards are not responsive to my requests for help: a. Too much power w/ too little of education b. compassion fatigue - thankfully a small percentage sometime help (bystander effect)! ③ I have published materials against the crimes of the State, white supremacists and the culture of war which makes all ~~associated~~ US citizens worse than the defamed Epstein, all citizens of USA are effectively (by behavioral analysis & stoichiometric footprint) by association [unless actively protesting, dissenting, conscientiously objecting]: white supremacists, murderers, rapists, human traffickers. Because of those publications the State, actively pursues a false-narrative to discredit me, my sanity, with the help of the military (who profits most directly off the modern cult of war / death) industrial complex; constantly surrounding me w/ provocateurs, detractors & distractors. The State & is able to coerce money-needy individuals who have nothing to lose and a false hero-narrative to gain, to threaten, harm & even kill me. The same goes for the white supremacists who are afraid to admit or ignorant that no-where in the world can you purchase a white baby as cheap as a dark skinned baby, ~~and~~ the poorest countries are non-white. This is thanks to our US Economy (read noam chomsky: "How the world works" chapter on American planners public record and Neo Nazi contra operations to dismantle 3rd world attempts @ democracy.

① uneducated violent criminals. low IQ / self control

① Cult of violence / lack of Jungle ② Rat! Rap! Surgeons & threats, impossible to prove to paranoid like court bins...

(4) I am also targetted by big-pharma for whistle blowing on the murderous, insurance fraudulent Hospice industry which hastens/ speeds up death w/out the patients knowledge or consent
a) by misusing (comfort) medication & placebo belief in how soon one will die b) by lying on death records

(5.) I have been repeatedly celled with violent and disturbing individuals who have threatened my life ~~even~~ including a white supremacist gang member AFTER my practical fears were ~~made~~ explicitly made on multiple records. I need to file 3 CD 1473's to avoid all contact w/ Mark Stratton, Michael Barnes & any Brutes/ white supremacist/ skinhead gang members or sympathizers,

(6.) lack of accountability, video recording devices

(1) [cont...] who repeatedly threaten violence and rape and where gang & drug activity is actually encouraged / NO SENSE OF BASIC NEED: SECURITY

(7) I have published SO MUCH and gotten no feedback on some seriously important issues: OBVIOUSLY BEING SILENCED

2./8 The guards did not respond when yelled for help

(1) [cont.] Gangs, weapons, drugs, violent people

Learning to Love, not fear, the atom bomb / deep state "demons" of musicians or alien "character dev." propaganda

I would feel safer back at Lane County Jail - The guards were more accountable and subject to video recording, and responded quicker

Please get an education, ~~you are~~ your ignorance and priviledge is hurting our world, when it could be helping

ABOUT THE TYPE

This book was set in Bembo, a typeface based on an old-style Roman face that was used for Cardinal Pietro Bembo's tract De Aetna in 1495. Bembo was cut by Francesco Griffo (1450–1518) in the early sixteenth century for Italian Renaissance printer and publisher Aldus Manutius (1449–1515). The Lanston Monotype Company of Philadelphia brought the well-proportioned letterforms of Bembo to the United States in the 1930s.

② (7/2) Preparing WRITINGS/BOOK/GRIEVANCES "SIMPLE SOLUTIONS"
1. grievances against my family, friends & society. Terrorist government, people too afraid to stand up, police state "friends"
2. An ideal world for my daughter, for all children. Max attention, catering, compassion & care
3. Justice System: run by Logic, not $ or words (verifiable math will still have competing formulas for "best fit/solution"
• Gaining the Trust of the Trustless not by words (too easy to misinterpret) FEAR OVER-RULES LOVE = SURVIVAL based conscious
1.5 Priviledge: Extra time and resources wasted
• Disadvantage of Drug Use: CONTROL. Anger benefits in a time of War vs. a Time of Peace & Trust
• false father Complex: Psuedo-Morality. Christ: "throw the first stone". Objective & relative righteous projections, breath constrictions, enemy imagery distract from true health/needs. Midnight Daughter (Jerome, AZ ~ Oct 2021 music artist "Midnight Daughter")

I Shall Wear Midnight - Terry Pratchett

5 - Nanny knew all the old, dark stuff - old magic, magic that didn't need witches, magic that was built into people and the landscape. It concerned things like death and marriage, and betrothals. And promises that were promises even if there was no one to hear them and all those things that make people touch wood. 6 - fire was her favorite element. It was considered so potent, and so scary to the powers of darkness, that people would even get married by jumping over fire together. 12 I asked granny if I could be a witch and she said I should not want to because witches have no passionate parts. 21 - the rough music was getting nearer slowly. 25 - you did feel the pain that you caused, but because it wasn't actually your pain you could somehow bear it. 27 - it's not that they are bad; it's just that they don't think. 28 - feed them as is hungry, clothe them as is naked, and speak up for them as has no voices (s. Matt 25:32-46). ..and just for a moment you hear the world turning 29 - it's not that she was a bad girl it's just that she never really understood what it was all about, and there wasn't anyone to tell her, and you got all kinds of strangers and travelers passing through all the time. Quite handsome chaps, some of them (s. Mck, Steve, Rat) 30 They are a bit strange over in Slice. The worst part of it was that her cats couldn't get out and started eating her; I mean she was cat mad and probably would not have minded, but one of them had kittens. It was very difficult to find the kittens homes where people hadn't already heard the story. They were beautiful kittens too. 45 - They made you well and, best of all, they made you forget. 47 the hare runs into the fire (moth*) (see p350 - The Leaping Hare by George Ewart Evans and David Thomson) 48 that was the thing about thoughts They thought themselves, and then dropped into your head in the hope that you would think so too. You had to slap them down, thoughts like that; they would take a witch over if she let them. And then it would all

10 the beats shook like a quartet of thumping hearts, pumping waves of invisible blood.. docile servant peoples.. who can think 12 white to be bold, to not blend into the night, to give warning.. if you were going to assassinate a man, he was entitled to see you coming 14 To kill was the greatest of sins 95 History is the most important of the literary sub arts .. Ignorance is hardly unusual.. The longer I live, the more I come to realize it is the natural state of the human mind. Many will strive to defend its sanctity and expect you to be impressed (s. "natural" - context - a product of environment/conditions which allow/reward/promote ignorance (such as authoritarian dictatorship that breed passive sheep)) 136 He who transforms 138-139 what others were handed, I had to hunt 141 Shall I step onto this desk & do a jig? .. an ardent is a representative of the almighty. (s.?) 148 could not guess what thought caused the unconscious gesture (93 then it was a test of some sort? "yet indeed," Jasnah voice musing) 157 the viewpoint of a man who slowly descended into madness after watching his children starve (s. The all seeing eye/metatron/akashic recording of modern day "Hunger games" (usa wasted food...) 158 Too discriminating. The body needs many different foods to remain healthy. And the mind needs many different ideas to remain sharp (s. refer to grapes of wrath: Preachers own kind of drunkenness + SJB each diff hormonal concoction/poo-brew, higher than I could ever be BTW Bob Marley did more for world peace than the church has..) (s. end the schism (needs many different)) 171 Those who take lives and those who save lives.. The group in the middle. The ones who cant do anything but die or be protected. 182 The ones who save lives by taking lives? Thats like trying to stop a storm by blowing harder 189 Theyre all going to die, and theres no way out.. what is one more try then? What could it hurt? 197 The boundaries of nature were far more important than the boundary of Nations (s. Bioregionalism #CASCADIA NOW) 226 you must unite them.. Cease squabbling and Unite. The everstorm comes 271 The means by which we achieve victory are as important as the victory itself (~ The most important words a man can say 2x: Life before Death. Strength before Weakness. Journey before Destination (hallowed Oaths, see also p 1156) 291 so few are willing to step in and help carry the stone, lest they condemn themselves to a life full of extra burden. One can ignore a poor wretch doing such labor but none can ignore a king sharing the load. Perhaps we should switch places more often. If a king can assume a burden of the poorest of men perhaps there will be those who will help him w/ his own load. Invisible yet daunting

• 344-345 The days of lying to the people, of keeping them in darkness, are gone. Instead of shallowed prophecies and pretend powers held by a few, we have a population who understand their beliefs and relationship w/ their God.. my personal opinion is that the things he sees are likely more a reflection than any mystical experience (s.1. Disproven (in novel) 2. "Unite them" is not shadow prophecy or pretend power 3. The 2 (reflections of past & mystical Experiences) do not have to be mutually exclusive ☺ and may be specifically or one of many ways GOD chooses to use us (Stay humble to your limited knowledge/dimensions of experience, finite capacities)

• 353 a collection of stories which teach that a leader should serve those he leads (see pg xiii "Elephant Company" diff. between a leader and a bully") 384 what is madness? It really just depends on the people around you. How different are you from them? The person that stands out is mad, I guess 385 if everyone lies, then the one who doesn't would be mad, right? 405 which changed you most. The visions, the codes or that book (s. The Dreams, the Laws or the Bible s2. The 3 red books..) 417 why do you care so much about honesty? And leading men to piles of Dung? How honest is that? That's different. It was a joke. 427 Tradition is the blind witness they use to condemn us.. its the pretty box they use to wrap up their lies. It makes us serve them 428 you put chull dung in the Highprinces Soup? 443 People are frightened of knowledge. ~~You~~ a learned man; knows things others cant understand. So those things must be dark and mysterious 453 were the visions a subconscious way of letting himself be a hero, of giving himself justification for doggedly seeking his goals? (s. Once again, the 2 dont have to be mutually exclusive. Maybe thats how Heroes are made.. Win-Win ☺) 463 a mans emotions are what define him, and control is the hallmark of true strength. To lack feeling is to be dead, but to act on every feeling is to be a child. 499 remember why we live. Remember warmth, Remember good food. Remember friends, and song and evenings spent around the Hearth. (See "Under Sweetwater Rim" ~~See "Elephant Company~~ & L'amour page 103 "the further we get from our basic needs, the less happy we are" (under sweetwater rim l'amour p103) 514 The book spoke of a king carrying the burdens of his people. It said that those who led were the lowest of men, for they were required to serve everyone 516 Remarkable how much easier it was to have a conversation while not looking directly at 537 my thanks to he who adds (Joseph = "adds upon") 543 The things I do in the name of scholarship 569 Proof that one can be both intelligent and accept the intelligence of those who disagree w/ you? Why, it would undermine the scholarly world in its entirety (s. Ha, no ☺) 570 the punishments were incompetent.. they were actually encouragement, a game.. Consider you have trained yourself to do something similar to what annoys you: cleverness - without thought behind it. 578 something innate understands seeking the good of Society is best for the individual as well (Tribal dream Paranoia Superego vs ID)

598 I'm not disgusted by them. I'm disgusted by the one who manipulates them 637 mind felt fuzzy. Knew he hurt, but floated. As if his head were detached from his body 659 we aren't 'going' anywhere. We are acting, pondering and learning (Journey before destination 660 why I reject the devotaries? Most of them seek to stop the questions (unconscious authorities) 670 Spren appear when something changes. They are the heart of change, and therefore the heart of all things 782 writing history is not about truth, but presenting the most flattering picture of themselves and their motives (s. As most people write their own history to each "conscious" motive) 820 Suddenly hissed. It was a feral, disturbing Sound (s. blond Staff welder @ Shasta) 936 Money is behind every war. Religion is but an excuse or justification 986 They were the enemy. If he hadn't learned to divide his mind like that, war would have destroyed him (s. James 4) (s. Warfare is Disassociation from Empathy etc) 1004 if the emperor is dead, and has been all these years, then the murders we committed are not his responsibility ~~(s. a~~ They are our own. (s. a reverse "Emperors new clothes" - where the citizens are revealed to themselves as "naked"/silly/guilty for hiding behind authority-figures (Presidents, leaders or excuses gods-will, satans fault etc - instead of taking Personal Responsibility) 1006 purpose of a storyteller is not to tell you how to think, but to give you questions to think upon. 1007 Its because of this tie between us that I can think again, that I can remember who I am. If we end it, I lose that (s. Self, ego, identity, the importance of Place, roots, friends, bonds my Baby Girl Lucie) 1008 Apathy. the belief nothing was his fault, the belief he couldnt change anything. If a man was cursed or believed he didnt have to care, then he didnt need to hurt when he failed. Those failures couldnt have been prevented. Someone or something else had ordained them. 1019 Did they think me less capable than a beggar? Sometimes I think I am. The beggar knows much that the king can only guess. ~~And yet who begs for ordinances/draws the codes~~ 1037 Protecting 10 innocents is not worth killing one. In the end all men die. How you lived will be far more important than ~~one~~ what you accomplished 1156 I will protect those who cannot protect themselves 1185 what was a prayer, if not creation? ~~to~~ Making something where nothing existed 1202 wrote the book after creating order.. to people who already had momentum.. I have been treating them like adults but were children. 1236 Speaking of their home and pasts, once taboo 1248 if a man were to have one talent, which would be the most revered? — aesthetic genius: invention, acumen, creativity.. what beaut· iful liars we are 1249 In our hearts we want to believe in

- 30 .. a man who gets angry often .. friends and family might refer to that anger as a beast, a thing that possesses, as something external to him. Humans personify. We speak of the wind as if it has ~~an idea~~ a will of its own. / Spren are those ideas - ideas of collective human experience (s. The collective sub/un/conscious comes alive!) 48 Sergeant, lieutenant, captain 194 he wanted to hold his story to himself. This wasnt uncommon. Slowly, with careful questions, pried [a] story free (s. but is it the same story he perceived or wouldve, if not pried? maybe after feeling/sensing new perspectives he would prefer to edit the grammar, structure, etc)
- 196 "youre really gonna give me [everything] for nothing?" "Nothing but your story" "why?" "Because you and I are one" - 199 Thats crazy talk, I think youre just a nice person 227 like trying to think rationally while in a dream 244 the trap of a scholar. Despite my initial horror, I had come to see it all as an intellectual puzzle. [They] were so outwardly dispassionate that I assumed [they] did the same .. Our danger isnt just theoretical. It is real and it is terrible 245 humans .. they break their minds break. you did not break. only cracked .. it is the lies that save you. 246 as soon as that grief came, another piled ontop. a grief that seemed frivolous in comparison, but one that threatened as much or even more .. my sketchpads ... all gone" (s. my records, writings, photos, documentaries/home videos) 247 these people seek to control the knowledge so that they can profit from it. Profit from the apocalypse itself. 265 it breaks you. It leaves you willing to do anything, Because you've already given away everything you could have cared about losing 323-324 her picture of him .. The one that depicted him not as he was, but as she imagined he might once have been [and who, with her help, he died trying to become A hero.] 322 The power of transformation .. "I didnt soul cast anyone" .. "and yet, you transformed them" 469 blasted monks saw themselves as property and couldnt own anything .. didnt need locks on doors 486 had joined the [priesthood] to escape the advances of men 499 this picture is a lie .. and yet it isnt. This is what he became, at the end .. so what is a lie and what is the truth?
- 563 ideopathic or symptomatic? .. Caused by a specific brain injury or just started happening for no reason? 600 she wasnt evil, really. She just didnt care. 633 Because they dont want to make choices anymore. Choices can be hard 655 [Humans] are abstract. They think in lies and tell them to themselves 662 To create art was not to capture it, but to participate in it (s. family fang "movie) 666 Love is like ... 682-683 it does get grimy .. So yes .. shot myself .. three times, all on purpose. 820 The old Magic .. Our mother has blessed her 828 he's public, belongs to everyone .. you can look at him sleeping 876 all stories have been told before .. the only things new are the names 881 you fear nonexistence, but is not unconsciousness the same thing?
- 919 a slave's way of thinking .. stop caring .. worry only about the next meal Dont think too much. Thinking is dangerous, it makes you hope, makes you want
- 947 Has any good ever come from a father hating his children? 954 The tone is different, and that mockery 955 it hurt because these visions were his - to be shared for the good of men not to be held in mockery

- 956 each vision I recieve will be published so that scholars around the world can investigate.. You will question and when I offer proof you will know. This attempt to destroy me will then vindicate me instead.. for I wish to speak with each and every one of you 990 its the fault of your entire class. Each time one of us is defrauded, enslaved, beaten or broken, the blame rests upon all of you who support it. Even indirectly
- 1008 you think I've lived a simple happy life full of sunshine and joy
- 1022 Then she smiled. She smiled anyway.. helps to be crazy. 1069 we are not born. Patterns are eternal. we cannot truly die. Yet we can be not in this state. Not aware.. I was everything, I was in everything Language is insufficient, I would need numbers.. Dead.. This means mindless - as a force cannot truly be destroyed. These old ones are patterns in nature now. 1079 This will not tempt me 1122 I gave your conscience plenty of time to come clean.. "Sometimes good men must die so greater goals can be accomplished".. he honestly believes he did the right thing. 1141 Humans can see the world as it is not. It is why your lies can be so strong.. it frightens me, we all see the world by some kind of light personal to us and that light changes our perception (S. re: (to first sentence) refer to p499 - it can become the lie" [The world can become beautiful / just / fair]) 1224 if I protect only the people I like, it means that I dont care about doing what is right 1225 I will protect even those I hate 1293 I will unite instead of divide.. I will bring men together 1299-1300 wiping himself in the privy w/ one of the finest paintings ever.. then strolling out to find all staring at an empty frame and commenting on how beautiful the work is 1303 You'll find god in the same place you'll find salvation from this mess.. inside the hearts of men

- 254 a group lie? A wonderful, wonderful lie. A time when people
- all imagine together 257 indeed it did hide something evil It was the people, like the girl and her village.. She goes down, sees a perfect society lit by ~~sunlight~~ storm light, steals some and brings it
- back. 281-282 a "true soldier" didn't care about politics - but shouldn't the why of what a man was doing be important to him? Soldiers didn't talk that way, an ideal she couldn't grasp, a - kind of cult of obedience, caring only of battle & challenge 295 any innocent is too many.. How many guilty may be punished before you accept one innocent casualty.. Eventually you will execute someone who does not deserve it,. a burden society must carry in exchange for order?.. The only course would be to let the Almighty guide, and let each instance be judged
- differently, depending on circumstances. 377 Try to understand what people want out of life and respect that, rather than project onto them what you think they should (s. BUT culturally
- conditioned & harmful/unnatural (who) traits (addictions)) 412 They will try to define you by something you are not. Don't let them. I can be a scholar, a woman, a radiant, a historian. People will still try to classify me by the thing that makes me an outsider. They want, ironically, the thing I don't do or believe
- to be the prime marker of my identity. 468 Maybe we should instead figure out the needs and work backward to determine how these things might have met them 499 he couldn't be blamed he was the product of his culture 500 pervasive cruel treatment led to being tired and forced to catch up.. lag behind, get whipped.. a self

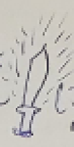
Midnight Daughter



(Jerome, Az ~ Oct 2021 music artist Midnight Daughter)

I Shall Wear Midnight - Terry Pratchett

5 - Nanny knew all the old, dark stuff - old magic, magic that didn't need witches, magic that was built into people and the landscape. It concerned things like death and marriage, and betrothals. And promises that were promises even if there was no one to hear them and all those things that make people touch wood. 6 - fire was her favorite element. It was considered so potent, and so scary to the powers of darkness, that people would even get married by jumping over fire together. 12 I asked granny if I could be a witch and she said I should not want to because witches have no passionate parts. 21 - the rough music was getting nearer slowly. 25 - you did feel the pain that you caused, but because it wasn't actually your pain you could somehow bear it. 27 - its not that they are bad; it's just that they dont think. 28 - feed them as is hungry, clothe them as is naked, and speak up for them as has no voices (s. Matt 25:32-46)..and just for a moment you hear the world turning 29 - its not that she was a bad girl its just that she never really understood what it was all about, and there wasn't anyone to tell her, and you got all kinds of strangers and travelers passing through all the time. Quite handsome chaps, some of them (s. Mck, Steve, Nat) 30 They are a bit strange over in Slice. The worst part of it was that her cats couldn't get out and started eating her; I mean she was cat mad and probably would not have minded, but one of them had kittens, it was very difficult to find the kittens homes where people hadnt already heard the story. They were beautiful kittens too. 45 - They made you well and, best of all, they made you forget. 47 the hare runs into the fire (moth*) (see p350 - The Leaping Hare by George Ewart Evans and David Thomson) 48 that was the thing about thoughts They thought themselves, and then dropped into your head in the hope that you would think so too. You had to slap them down, thoughts like that; they would take a witch over if she let them. And then it would all break down, and nothing would be left but the cackling. 50 it was impossible to embarrass a feegle. They just couldn't grasp the idea 52 - Someone was watching her... it wasn't bird or animal, either. They always felt different 53 - going nuts, or rather, not going nuts - was the soul & center of witch craft. after awhile, a witch had a tendency to go... strange... if you kept yourself busy, you wouldn't have time to go nuts 57 There are some things a whole village has to do (s. Clinton "it takes a village" & p115 of "Dreams from my father" (Obama): "What I needed was a community") 58 - Smelled like sickroom everywhere: all too much of people, and not enough air. 64 "Then you are your own person?" "IDK about that. lately I feel as if I belong to everybody 70 - ΔΔ The hare runs into the fire (X2) / The fire, it takes her, she is not burned (X2) / The fire, it loves her, she is not burned / The hare runs into the fire / The fire, it loves her, she is free 80 you are a very religious woman always on your knees, and that is fine by me, but didn't it ever occur to you to take a mop and bucket down there with you? People dont need prayers, they need you to do the job in front of you. 81 - people often didn't stop to think. They thought as they went along. Sometimes it was a good idea just to stop moving, in case you moved the wrong way.

86 - I wouldn't want ye to believe beating a girl nigh unto death is a good thing but who can know how our paths are chosen? She has the gift of understanding - would she have found it else? The meaning of life is to find your gift. To find your gift is happiness 94 - we're all very proud of you, but its getting to people somehow. They're saying some ridiculous things. And we're having difficulty selling cheeses & and everybody knows you are the best at cheeses (s. CHEESE SOCKS) 134 hitting her over the head w/ a frying pan (s. Hana Silverman defense [ref. to Nat letter on 5/18/23) 138 though nobody's saying it, we're locked in here for our protection everyone else is locked out. though they act dumb, policemen can't help being clever. They know that people need witches; they need unofficial people who understand the difference between right and wrong, and when right is wrong and when wrong is right 140 - As a dog return to his vomit and a fool to his folly (s. what about dogs eating other dog shit for gut health?) 159 - that is what we call a logical argument and therefore no one who wanted to believe.. would pay any attention to it. 161 - * in truth the Nac Mac Feegle believe that the world is such a wonderful place, that in order to get into it they must have been very good in another existence 181 - Evil begins when you begin to treat people as things 197 - The kind of Bully that forces her victims into retaliation, which becomes justification for nastier bullying 206 - I remember when you were small, and then off you went up to the mountains, where the folks are so strange and wild.. 207 - the woman, still hypnotizing the girls w/ her ranting 208 - Thats not us! watch what you are thinking! Slam back into your body.. Quick; Remember [Empathy] (s. Light magic vs. Dark) 210 - Regrettably you have no rights at all. You are not a lease holder, you are not a tenant and you own no land. In short, you have nothing on which rights are based (s. a Sour History lesson.. still recognize the Universal Declaration) 214 - a hearing, evidence, witnesses, a jury of my peers - people like me and habeas corpus. 248 Too many books in one place - who knew what they could do? - knowledge is power, power is energy, energy is matter, matter is mass and mass changes time and space. 274 "how exactly did they commit suicide?" - They took a shovel to a Feegle mound, miss "... I would kill a man who does this, miss. I would kill him dead, and chase him through the next life to kill him again and again, because it would be THE SIN O' SINS, to kill an entire people, and one death would not be enough 284 I once stole a packet of colored pencils - "how old were you?" - Six" (s. 1st grade (same age) I did the same, and when the teacher remarked, I hid them in someone elses desk - and still somehow - I was caught!) 285 Quis custodiet ipsos custodes - who guards the guards 286 prison by definition being a lot of people all crammed together and every fear and hatred and worry and dread and rumor all sitting on top of one another, choking for space. 290 She could feel it.. But it wasn't bad watching; someone was caring for her 293 when I am old, I shall wear midnight 301 there was a wink Then she said - "human being first, witch second; hard to remember, easy to do". It was magic that turned a hall full of people into human beings among other human beings. 306 "why did she want to do that?" - I doubt very much she actually wanted to do it, but someone asked her to do it, and paid good money too. 327 could he ever have been good? How do you change the past? where does evil begin? (see page 181 - evil begins when you begin to treat people as things (sociopathic capitalism/globalism)).... your only power is rumor and lies. You bore your way into people when they are uncertain and weak and worried and frightened and they think their enemy is other people, when their enemy is always YOU (david cunnon)

This is not to suggest that we stop or even lessen efforts to eliminate domestic violence but it is to console those who have had it happen beyond their control (Domestic violence is a result of unnecessary/unwanted/unmet needs & generations of trauma/abuse)

• 336 - I want a school here.. [most are useless] they teach facts, not understanding. Its like teaching people about forests by showing them a picture of a saw. I want a proper school, to teach reading and writing but most of all thinking, so people can find what theyre good at, because someone doing what they really like is always an asset to any country, and too often people never find out until it's too late.. I'd like boys to learn about girls and girls to learn about boys. Learning is about finding out who you are, what you are, where you are and what you are standing on and what you are good at and whats over the horizon and, well, everything. Its about finding the place where you fit. I found the place where I fit and I would like everybody else to find theirs. 340 - when you get right down to it, the world is all about stories... you can travel in time ..only as a shadow and a whisper 344 Common consent (s. • HAWAIIN FOLK TALES Introduction by Glen Grant 15 - a triad named Ku-Kava-Kahi, or the fundamental Supreme Unity. 31 Snaring the Sun: Maui was the Son of Hina-lau-ae and Hina. His mother Hina made Kapas. And as she spread them out to dry the days were so short that she was put through great trouble and labor hanging them out and taking them in day after day.. Maui seeing this was filled w/ pity for her.. So he determined to make the Sun go slower. He made a strong cord out of coconut husk fibre. One Moemoe seeing this said tauntingly: "you will never catch the sun. You are an idle nobody". Maui answered: "When I conquer my enemy and my desire is attained I will be your death!" So Maui went up the Mountain Haleakala and when the Sun rose where he was stationed he prepared a noose and snared one of the Suns larger beams and broke it off. One after another he broke off, all the Strong rays of the Sun and shouted: "you are my captive, and now I will kill you for going too swiftly" The Sun said "Let me live and you will see me go more slowly after." So the agreement was made, and from that time on the Sun went slower and thats why the days are longer at one season of the year than at another. It was this that gave the name to that mountain which should be called Alaha-ka-la (Sun-snarer) and not Haleakala. 33 The Origin of fire - Maui and Hina dwelt together and had four sons. One day while all were out fishing in their canoe they saw the light of a fire on the shore. So they returned to the shore and ran toward the spot where the fire had been burning to cook their fish. But the fire keepers (mud-hens) saw them coming and scratched the fire out and flew away. Only when they were out fishing would the fire appear, and when they returned they could not find it. They tried this day after day but the mud-hens knew there were only 4 sons and would only make a fire when all 4 were out at sea. So one son decided to trick them by dressing up a calabash in a kapa to sit on the canoe while he stayed behind hiding and when the mud-hens lit their fire to cook their bananas he leapt forward and seized a mud-hen and exclaimed "Now I will kill you! You are keeping the fire from us. I will be the death of you for this" The mud-hen spoke "let me live and you shall have the fire" So the Son asked "tell me, where is the fire" and the mud-hen replied "it is in the leaf of the a-pe plant (Alocasia macrorrhiza) and in a dry stick" after he got the fire from the dry stick he rubbed the top of the mud-hens head until it was red w/ blood (s. Prometheus was punished in a similar fashion for bringing fire to people)

58 - A visit to the Spirit land; or, the Strange experience of a woman in Kona, Hawaii. Kalima had been sick for many weeks and at last died. The old mother cried and cried. That mournful, sob-choked wail broke on the still air, and was borne out to the friends and family gathered and was taken up and repeated until the hardest heart would have softened at the sound. Suddenly Kalima moved, took a long breath, and opened her eyes. In a few minutes she revived enough to say, "I have something strange to tell you" Several days passed before she was strong enough to tell them the following weird and strange story: "I died as you know and stood beside my body I gazed at my body for a few minutes then turned and walked away on to the next village and found crowds of people. Some of them I knew and they spoke to me - although I knew they were dead and nearly all were strangers. They were all so happy! They seemed not to have a care; nothing to trouble them. Joy was in every face, and happy laughter and bright loving words were on every tongue. I left that village and walked on to the next, I was not tired as it seemed no trouble to walk. It was the same there, thousands of people and everyone so joyous and happy. I spoke to a few then went on again. All along the road were houses and people, where I had never known anyone to live. Every bit of good ground had many houses, and many, many happy people on it. I felt so full of joy, too, that my heart sang for me and I was glad to be dead. At last I reached the volcano where they were happy like the others but said "you must go back to your body. You are not to die yet." I did not want to go back. I begged and prayed to be allowed to stay but they drove me back, even beating me when I stopped and would not go on. back through all those happy people who were still joyous but turned to drive me on. I wish I could have stayed w/ those happy people I was so happy, so happy! 200 Battle of the Owls. An owl told a man named Kapoi to build up a temple and an altar. News spread to the King who made a law that whoever should erect a temple will pay the penalty of death. Kapoi was seized and to be put to death on the day of Kane (when the moon is 27 days old) when that day came the owls left their places and covered the whole sky over Honolulu and as the Kings servants were to put Kapoi to death the owls flew at them, pecking w/ their beaks and scratching w/ their claws. There was a battle between the Kings people and the owls, at last the owls conquered and Kapoi was released, the King acknowledged that his god was a powerful one. 203 The land is the Seas - Kaopulupulu was famed for his power and wisdom in his profession and was the leader of the priests. He had a son named Kahulupue whom he instructed during his youth in all priestly vocations. A man became chief and Kahulupue was chosen by him as priest. This chief did evil to his subjects, seizing their property and beheading and maiming many. Kahulupue tried to dissuade him, assuring him that such a course would fail to win their support and obedience 215 Ku-ula, the fish God of Hawaii - Ku-ula had a human body and the power to direct and control all fish of the sea at will. 255 - The Shark Man, Nanave - it was the belief that several of these shark gods could assume any shape they chose, the human form even, when occasion demanded. A King shark god made a child w/ a beautiful fishing woman. He would only come home at night and cautioned her to never feed the child animal flesh of any kind. The child was named Nanaue and had to wear a cover/kapa over his back to hide his shark mouth. One day while working some others tore his kapa off and all near saw his shark mouth. Nanaue was so enraged he bit some. The people and chiefs were for killing his mother and relatives. But the King would not consent even though they brought up such a monster. The priests were requested to make offerings and invocations to a shark god, that his spirit might take possession of one of his mediums devoted to his cult. It was then a case of god vs god, but one was only a young demi god without full strength and Nanaue was a full grown man and shark. If it had not been for the binding of cords and nets it is believed he would have gotten the better of the young demi god but he was finally conquered and hauled up the hill to be burnt. Nanaue was so large that in attempt to burn him the blood and ooze put out the fire several times. The young demigod ordered the people to cut into knives, bamboos from the sacred grove of Kainalu. The father of the young demigod (another form of the god) was so angered by the desecration of the grove and on the way it was used that he took away all the sharpness and edge from the bamboos of that grove forever, and to this day they are different from the bamboos of any other place or grove on the islands, in particular, a peice of them cannot cut any more than any common piece of wood/// THE LAST OF THE MOHICANS - James Cooper 17 his eyes fell on the still, upright, and rigid form of the "Indian Runner," who had borne to the camp the unwelcome tidings of the preceding evening. Although in a state of perfect repose, and apparently disregarding, with characteristic stoicism, the excitement and bustle around him, there was a sullen fierceness mingled with the quiet of the savage, that was likely to arrest the attention of much more experienced eyes than those which now scanned him, in unconcealed amazement. 20 - manifest no distrust, or you may invite the danger you appear to apprehend (s. Transference) 23 This man is, most manifestly, a disciple of Apollo... This strange man amuses me; and if he 'hath music in his soul,' let us not churlishly reject his company 24 judge not too rashly from hasty and deceptive appearances"... Do the psalms of David exceed all other language and surpass all vain poetry. Happily I say that I utter nothing but the wishes of the King of Israel himself (s. This all can form a symbiotic relationship. If people nourish a story properly, it tells things about life. The same is true w/ dreams and names - Howard A. Norman, The Wishing bone cycle 121 "you guys are afraid of everyone. Enough stories. Why dont we chant for awhile?" We started to sing a song to the great mother earth 146 - You are the squirrel spirit / you walk the tree trails / you are the gatherer squirrel / you are jumper squirrel known in all worlds / you are the memory, good-medicine squirrel / you bring me light from the path shaded by ~~trees~~ leaves / you walk the tree trails shining in the sun / you are seer medicine-being / You are shaman squirrel with your great warm coat / Good-food squirrel, giveaway squirrel / you are healing squirrel / Teaching the tree alphabet / friend of woman-mystery squirrel (s. X - Nor do I pretend to understand the stark nihilism that drove the terrorists that day (9/11) and that drives their brethren still (S. Really?.. Proxy wars and CIA contra's like in central (South America - american planners: Noam Chomsky) My powers of empathy, my ability to reach into another's heart, cannot penetrate the blank stares of those who would murder innocents with abstract serene satisfaction (S. #1) contradiction (empathy powers would be able to understand..) #2) Soldiers, the US military: how do you justify war?.)

49 - If you want to grow into a human being, you're going to need some values 67 There was nothing to fear but fear itself 80 - that's just how white folks will do you... it was as if whites didn't know they were being cruel in the first place. 81 The term white was simply shorthand for bigot. "There are white folks, and then there are ignorant motherfuckers like you" 115 - What I needed was a community that cut deeper than the common despair that black friends and I shared when reading the latest crime statistics, or the high fives on a basketball court. A place where I could put down stakes and test my commitments 116 Had I been a slave.. I would have preferred death. This is what I don't understand - why so many men did not fight at all. Until death. 118 where were the fathers who could explain this gash in our hearts 119 Well, amigo.. you can talk all you want about saving the world but this city tends to eat away at such noble sentiments. Look out there. Everybody looking out for number one. Survival of the fittest. Tooth and claw. Elbow the other guy out of the way. That, my friend, is New York. But... Who knows? Maybe you'll be the exception. 134 - I can see that my choices were never truly mine alone - to assert otherwise is to chase after a sorry sort of freedom 138 who was I, who shed no tears at the loss of his own? 141 Churches are the only game in town. That's where the people are, and that's where the values are, even if they've been buried under alot of bullshit. Churches won't work with you, though just out of the goodness of their hearts. They'll talk a good game - a sermon on sunday, maybe, or a special offering for the homeless. But if push comes to shove, they won't really move unless you can show them how it'll help them pay their heating bill. 191 Not to say that everything I learned from the leaders cheered my heart. If they often revealed a strength of Spirit that I hadn't imagined, they also forced me to acknowledge the unspoken forces that retarded our efforts, secrets that we kept from each other as well as from ourselves. 194 Was the sense of emptiness you felt.. because you imagined a godless universe (S. Attachment styles and the lack of humble science (comprehending dimensions beyond our senses?)) 195 That hate hadn't gone away; it formed a counternarrative buried deep within each person (S. The counter culture IS conscious culture) and at the center of which stood white people - some cruel, some ignorant, sometimes a single face, sometimes just a faceless image of a system claiming power over our lives (S. E). I had to ask myself whether the bonds of community could be restored without collectively exorcising that ghostly figure that haunted black dreams. 221 - Who might protect me from doubt?.. We had been frozen by the sight of the other, unable to escape the suspicion that under examination our true selves would be found wanting. 231 - inheritor of a sad history, part of a closed system with few moving parts, .. a prisoner of fate 233 when their eyes stop laughing.. they've shut something off inside.

- 258 just think about what a real education for these children would involve. It would start by giving a child an understanding of himself, his world, his community, his culture. That's the starting point, that's what makes a child hungry to learn – the promise of being part of something, of mastering his environment. 259 unless they're rooted in their own traditions, they won't ever be able to appreciate what other cultures have to offer... It felt like I had come home. 437 – the study of law can be disappointing.. a sort of glorified accounting that serves to regulate the affairs of those who have power – and that all too often seeks to explain, to those who do not [have power], the ultimate wisdom and justness of their condition. But that's not all law is. The law is also memory; the law also records a long-running conversation, a nation arguing with its conscience.
- 456 a government that truly represents and serves Americans – will require a different kind of politics. That politics will need to reflect our lives as they are actually lived. It won't be prepackaged, ready to pull off the shelf. It will have to be constructed from the best of our traditions and will have to account for the darker aspects of our past [and present]. We will need to understand just how we got to this place, this land of warring factions and tribal hatreds. And we will need to remind ourselves, despite all our differences, just how much we share: common hopes, common dreams, a bond that will not break.

The Forgotten Daughter

by Joanna Goodman 9 – he's loud and opinionated, and he fills every bit of space in their once quiet lives 10 – "you can't just do things like that in the real world." "Did you hear how he spoke to her? Like she was some piece of garbage. That's how rich Anglos treat us. That's what they think of us. You think that's okay?" 24 – She has a longer vision than drugs and parties & fireworks. She knows there's a lot more to life than unfettered, instant gratification. She has brains and passion. She cares about politics and protecting the French language in Quebec. She cares about her people. 26 – "I was raised to respect both sides equally" "In other words, you were educated in English and grew up middle or upper class and you've had all kinds of opportunities and choices, but you think because your daddy worked at a factory 30 years ago you can claim to understand us... but only as a means to an end" "means to what end?" "Pretending you're a separatist to get your story"

- 37 – she keeps the ~~door~~ window open because she likes to feel and smell the outdoors at all times, no matter how cold it gets. It reminds her that she is free.
- 38 – the real enemies were the doctors and nuns, who labeled you crazy when you weren't and abused the hell out of you, the government that profited from it all 41 – maybe now it's time to tell her story. Maybe now someone is finally willing to hear it. 44 – a man gets broken in prison. That's what it's designed to do: tear you down, destroy your spirit, take away all your passions, one by one. First you forget the sound of music, then you forget how to sing, laugh, even how to cry. They take away every single thing that's precious to you. 46 – I did it for my baby girl! She couldn't reconcile with the man who had taken away someone else's father and husband. She's never stopped grappling with it, but she has mastered the strategy of compartmentalization 52 She's been a good mother. She never raised a hand to her, never screamed, never intimidated her. Love doesnt judge or discriminate against conflicting opinions or ambitions; it does not divide or bully. Love is far more resilient than the average human being, forever indomitable in the face of frail ego's and heavy chips on shoulders and stubborn, self righteous pride. Love has nothing to prove; only humans do. This is what she would like to say: the love they had for each other did not fail. They are the ones who failed.. maybe its not too late 401 maybe love is expansive enough to remember everything and still transcend it all.

The Ear, the Eye and the Arm by Nancy Farmer

Preface - People built houses but didn't own them. They gave them to the community. Anyone who needed peace and quiet... I also wrote this for Daniel [author's kid] I don't think he's read it - kids are often embarrassed by stuff their parents do (s. :'() 6 - Praise Singing.. medicine for the soul.. recounted the strengths and glories of each family member 14 we sacrifice animals and we aren't vegetarians.. its the way they do it.. they believe their gods are asleep and can only be roused if they send a messenger. The more pain the messenger has endured, the more brightly it burns with anger 19 - "a Shave for storytelling" a Shave is a wandering Spirit who entered and taught an important skill. 20 great grandmother was a mudzimu, or family Spirit 32 it didn't matter whether the Praise was true or not. Once the listener fell under the spell, he accepted it all.. and the extraordinary thing was that people began to look like their descriptions 48 Arm had to suffer the hate, greed and anger boiling around the Suburb. Only an occasional whiff of kindness, like a pale flower wilting in an alley. Gradually he adjusted, but he was never really comfortable 70 - slowly, insidiously, he fell into the routine of life.. But as time went on, his memories became less distinct, and this frightened him most of all. "you have to remember home," she told the little boy. 87 Ndoros, worn by Spirit mediums.. The shell of a Sea Mollusk.. heavy Spiral of white shell. 100 - just look at the world you come from: gang warfare, drugs, crimes, broken families. Your people have forgotten about 128 the ancestors, and the spirits are angry w/ you. (s. Sad semi-t truth/ignorance ~ lack of empathy/assistance easy dismissal) 103 that was the best kind of story: when the teller was as much under its spell as the listener. 104 The mellower has a Shona shave. Aren't we lucky a Spirit decided to possess him? I wish someone would take an interest in me. 108 It burned his mind like fire. All the insults and humiliation the people had endured from normal folk bubbled up like hot acid. It was hate, rather than the pain that threatened to overwhelm him. 123 He has special abilities and that was where he was wounded (s. p108 we all have the ability to cultivate EMPATHY ~ Belief in self/others/future. To renew the false Narrative of "Human Nature") 124 Together they saw into the heart of things [arm, eye and ear were One] They were the true spirit mediums of the city. They did not take messages from the upper world to common humanity. Rather, they took the voices of the lowly and let them be heard on high. 130 It was useless to expect help from the boys. Not only were they ignorant about what lay outside, they weren't even curious. 193 you bonded w/ the baby, didn't you?.. you and the infant are one. 194 her attention has to be diverted, or we're going to have to buy you the large size in diapers. 221 You're projecting your thoughts INTO them. 224: it is "therapy:

It makes people feel good." "So does heroin." 240 where do you think the people are now? In a nasty hospital where they don't get fresh air or work how they please. They get drugs pumped into them to keep them quiet. 253 it was like being in a room full of mirrors. I thought of something frightening.
She reflected it back to me, which made me more frightened which upset her even more. 262 long ago, Zimbabwe was attacked by Spirits. a group of people moved next to a Shona village. The Shona began to have the most terrible dreams.
They fought one another and mistreated their elders and children. Their culture broke down 279-falling won't hurt me.. but, they can twist me into a slave for their hurtful designs (hateful and perverted). Then patients will abandon children, elders left to starve. Brother will kill brother and the land itself will decay. 281 They're a silly and trusting people. 301 too much praise was bad for you but a little was like a vitamin. It was necessary for healthy, happy spirits and besides, it was fun 307 a parent/child mistreated, who has a grievance left over may turn into an Ngozi. The wrong must be corrected before the spirit will agree to depart... it is possible to be a witch and not know it and therefore to feel responsible for whatever illness and death have occurred (s. What's the difference between a witch and an Empath?) (Q ≠ A w/

In almost every respect imaginable, Prohibition was a failure. It encouraged criminality and institutionalized hypocrisy. It deprived the government of revenue, stripped the gears of the political system, and imposed profound limitations on individual rights. It fostered a culture of bribery, blackmail, and official corruption. It also maimed and murdered, its excesses in deaths by poison, by the brutality of ill trained, improperly supervised enforcement officers and by unfortunate proximity to mob gun battles. 376 advocates for legalization

· Living Zen Remindfully - James Austin ≤ start with this false equation VI = VII + I Then, convert into a true statement: VII = VI + I... Why must we remain flexible throughout such a task? first, in order to achieve Destructuring. This means breaking up prior rigid expectations, fixed perceptual patterns, big unwieldy chunks of data. after this bigger problems become smaller, seperable elements. flexibility is also required to achieve Restructuring i.e. organizing into appropriate solution 28 The awakened state (see R6.5 p285 & RR 26-9) did not add something. Instead, it deleted a key aspect of their ordinary perception - the pervasive influence of an intrusive self. The state was devoid of emotional attachments to the self

· 33-34 Notice the paradox (to liberate the ego while also diminishing the old, overinflated maladaptive egocentric self)(s. I would say to identify/utilize more/with the Super ego (collective conscious/conscience) which is what they're doing by becoming more pro-social: 110, 111, 194). Our Self does help us to be defined and to act. However it is essential to know when and how to let go of it.. Psychic Senses of Self The I, The Me & The Mine; The Sovereign, The Vulnerable & The Possessor 35 Begin to think of the Self as huge constellations of linked modules distributed in networks throughout the brain [, Body and Environment].. 34 Somatic Self does exist in the here and now. Our own bodies provide tangible, proof-positive evidence.. A Psychic self almost entirely intangible. Although we can't touch any thought (s. False, most thoughts are free-associations based off the environment /visual field which we can touch & examine its chain reaction "rabbit hole" to another thought, also EEG & whole body monitoring/analysis will confirm repeat thoughts occur in parallel/connection with repeat environment/body postures. Environmental DNA, molecular breath & blood, urine & feces signatures (just to name a few)) 35 allocentric attention (ancient greek, allos = other).. attention being directed toward items out there in extra personal space (concrete reality) 43 a glaring fact: Selflessness could occur. A person's entire sense of Self-control over events could actually drop out at certain types ((conscious) AWAKENING vs. s. learned helplessness) 69 Great is the force of Memory, excessively great, O my God. Whoever sounded the bottom of this large and boundless chamber? - Saint Augustine (354-430AD)

88 a disorder called transient Global Amnesia.. we first encode an episode into memory ~~before we turn to what~~, then consolidate, and finally, recall it; "laying down" of memories, "storage" and "retrieval" or recollection.. Working memory systems help us to monitor and solve a new task immediately. Long term memories are different: 1. Explicit Memories: facts we can declare (declarative) verbally or in writing 2. Implicit Memories: automated behaviors, our habitual procedural memory skills conditioned. 90 anterograde memory wipes out their immediate memories as fast as each new event presents.. retrograde memory: events are deleted that happened just before the anterograde amnesia started.. these states include Kensho-Satori (see 113 "Hearing with ones whole being" [illegible]) 111 meditators experience a wide variety of "light" phenomena.. this process opened up a very different, socially oriented career path - social service work. 110 an unusual, urgent, conscious desire to be up there (see 194) 122 It is not that something different is seen, but that one sees differently. It is as though the spatial act of seeing were changed by a new dimension - Carl Jung (1875-1961) 145 Paradox: The Maple Leaf Way Up in ambient Space 194 The Sounds of Raindrops.. States of Kensho arise much further beyond worldly attachments.. A person's spontaneous act of gazing up and out there - into the distance - can also set in motion deep shifting mechanisms, enhancing allocentric (other-referential) attentive processing.. dropping off ones prior Self-centered frame of reference 195 (1) no personalized attachments (2) no self/other boundary (3) self-other coidentity instead... "Tell me what you pay attention and I will tell you who you are" - Jose Ortega y Gasset (1883-1955) 209 presence of trees in an outdoor setting confers many intangible benefits (Research Shows) 210 The ordinary word thoughts... normally, we know when we are "talking to ourselves", we're certain we are the agency uttering, not some outside, ill defined source (s. Narcissistic much? Radio & thought/auditory-hallucinations induced experiments) it is estimated we spend 1/4 of conscious waking life in forms of inner speech (s. I contend 100% all our time, but we are not conscious of ongoing free associations, self-referential body monitor, etc) 211 Zen meditation enables maladaptive inner speech to drop off 213 keep directing attention to the "Great Matter" (s. "daily practice" "unlearn" "retrain" becoming conscious of Thought Loops and addressing them until they are resolved or remade "Subconscious"

"Now, in the present moment" Typically being present, in the Now means active awareness of direct sensory stimuli (The parent function, or ~~original~~ first Nature) however, in that Same Present moment is a limitless reservoir of free-associations, trained & hidden opinions/analysis/perspectives/"thoughts" refered to as "Second Nature" (because it is a change/metamorphosis/transformations/deduction or induction from the initial stimuli

The problem with rashly/impatiently/prematurely defining first and second nature is that many minds may differ in the initial processing of sensory stimuli, each unique type of mental filter is cultivated over time, and if one were to completely strip all filters, to witness first nature, The overload of sensory input may simply

~overwhelm the subject back to fetal/newborn/blank/helpless/infantile like Being; But maybe, a child would not be so infantile or helpless if it were full grown, near basic needs: water, food, shelter EVEN amidst the seemingly "onslaught"/"cascade"/overwhelming sensory input

DANIEL QUINN grew up in Omaha, Nebraska, and studied at St. Louis University, the University of Vienna, and Loyola University of Chicago. He worked in Chicago-area publishing for twenty years before beginning work on the book for which he is best known, Ishmael. This book was chosen from among some 2,500 international entrants to win the half-million-dollar 1991 Turner Tomorrow competition for a novel offering "creative and positive solutions to global problems." The novel has subsequently sold more than a million copies in English, is available in some thirty languages, and has been used in high schools and colleges worldwide in courses as varied as philosophy, geography, ecology, archaeology, history, biology, zoology, anthropology, political science, economics, and sociology. Subsequent works include Providence, The Story of B, My Ishmael: A Sequel, Beyond Civilization, After Dachau, The Holy, and most recently At Woomeroo, a collection of short stories. He currently lives with his wife in Houston.

Advancing healthy Populations: the pfizer guide to careers in public health - pfizer Inc 2003 83 Did you know? It is estimated that low health literacy costs the health care system approximately $73 Billion annually. The primary reasons are longer hospital stays or reduced access to health services. the definition of functional literacy provided by in the National Literacy Act of 1991: "The ability to read, write, and speak in English, and compute and solve problems at levels of proficiency necessary to function on the job and in society to achieve one's goals and develop one's knowledge and potential" 17 People are starting to understand public health, that what affects our health isn't only our physician It involves a far broader look at Society 92 To work well in health communications, you need to understand prevalences and incidences of diseases as well as determinants of outcomes. Formal training in Math theory is good preparations for such work - Dr.
Thomas W. Valente, PhD believes his thesis Mathematical Models of the Diffusion of Innovation, a well-known theory in public health, earned him his first job. 93 Did you know? Soap operas taught an estimated 48% of their 38 million regular viewers something about diseases and how to prevent them (1999 CDC Healthstyles Survey revealed over one-third of viewers took some action as a result. 98-99 There are three basic requirements to being a good health reporter: You must be curious, be able to write a coherent sentence and be able to tell a good story.. a health reporter must be concerned with how people hear what is said. For example, if you or a loved one has [a disease, discomfort, story] and there is the [disease, discomfort, story] on the news, it is going to grab your attention.. "You never know who your audience is or how what you say will affect them" 148 Health is a prerequisite for economic Growth, human dignity, the fulfillment of human rights and world peace.

DRIVING WHILE UNDER THE INFLUENCE OF INTOXICANTS—INTOXICATING LIQUOR

Oregon law provides that a person commits the offense of driving while under the influence of intoxicants if the person drives a vehicle on any premises open to the public while the person __1A/1B__.

In this case, to establish the crime of driving while under the influence of intoxicants, the state must prove beyond a reasonable doubt the following elements:

(1) The act occurred on or about __________, 20___;

(2) [Defendant's name] drove a vehicle on premises open to the public; and

(3) While driving the vehicle [defendant's name] __2A/2B__.

1A has .08 percent or more by weight of alcohol in (his / her) blood as shown by chemical analysis of (his / her) breath or blood

1B is under the influence of intoxicating liquor

2A had .08 percent or more by weight of alcohol in (his / her) blood as shown by chemical analysis of (his / her) breath or blood

2B was under the influence of intoxicating liquor

DIRECT AND CIRCUMSTANTIAL EVIDENCE

There are two types of evidence. One is direct evidence—such as the testimony of an eyewitness. The other is circumstantial evidence—the proof of a chain of circumstances pointing to the existence or nonexistence of a certain fact. You may base your verdict on direct evidence or on circumstantial evidence, or on both.

COMMENT: See State v. Lerch, 296 Or 377, 396, 677 P2d 678 (1984); State v. Krummacher, 269 Or 125, 139, 523 P2d 1009 (1974); *State v. Because the distinction between direct and circumstantial evidence may be conceptually difficult for the average juror, the Committee recommends that the instruction be given only when circumstantial evidence is a focal issue in the trial. See Draves, 18 Or App at 253. UCrJI 1008 (Inferences) should suffice in most cases to tell the jurors that they can draw inferences from the evidence.

DEFENDANT'S STATEMENTS

When a witness testifies about statements made by the defendant, you should consider such testimony with caution.

In reviewing such testimony, you should consider, among other things, the following:

(1) Did the defendant make the statement, and, if so, did [he / she] clearly express what [he / she] intended to say?

(2) Did the witness correctly hear and understand what the defendant said?

(3) Did the witness correctly remember and relate what the defendant said?

(4) Did the witness intentionally or mistakenly alter some of the defendant's words, thereby changing the meaning of what was actually said?

If, after weighing such factors, you conclude that the defendant said what [he / she] intended to say and that the witness to the statement correctly understood, remembered, and related to you what the defendant said, then you are authorized to consider such statements for what you deem them to be worth.

COMMENT: ORS 10.095(4); State v. Bouse, 199 Or 676, 698–700, 264 P2d 800 (1953), overruled on other grounds, State v. Fischer, 232 Or 558, 565, 376 P2d 418 (1962).

This instruction is an ORS 10.095 statutorily required instruction. It must be given in appropriate cases when requested by the defense, that is, when "there is evidence to support it." State v. Swee, 51 Or App 249, 253, 624 P2d 1108 (1981); see State v. McKenna, 67 Or App 662, 665, 679 P2d 346 (1984) (in context of DUII case). In Swee, one of the reasons that the trial judge did not give the uniform "oral admission" instruction requested by the defendant was that the judge felt that the instruction labeled a questionably incriminating statement as an "admission." The conviction was reversed on appeal. The Committee believes it is preferable to refer to the defendant's statement as a "statement" and leave it to the jury to determine whether or not it is also an "admission."

Despite the chatter, the whistles, the TV, the shower - Back to the Point (still these blames are relevant, I will explain even though it should be easy enough to see) when I wrote down The Purpose of End The Schism to unite churches, businesses, schools, the legal system / local government on my address book, I felt like crying because I almost did not believe it myself. This is something I blame on the people around me, on my father, the lack of belief in self, others, the past & future, in Goodness. It is contagious, this self doubt so many have grown accustomed to, but to doubt ones self, the origin of this doubt, a child whose belief was taken from themselves to prepare for the coldness of the world? or some other excuse. To doubt oneself is necessary for discovery & scientific methodology but that is not the doubt I speak of - for one should always beable to retain the Dream, the Higher Good even amidst doubts which should actually assist in the dreams materialization / concrete-manifestation (if properly put to use, properly trained to encounter doubt, obstacles and challenges without becoming overweighed & drowned in the challenge itself, forgetting the initial light, hope, inspiration.

DEFENDANT'S PRIOR CONVICTION

If you find that the defendant has been previously convicted of a crime, you may consider this conviction only for its bearing, if any, on the credibility of the defendant.

Specifically, you may not use this evidence for the purpose of drawing the inference that because the defendant was convicted of a previous crime the defendant may be guilty of the crime charged in this case.

COMMENT: OEC 609. If the conviction has been received for a purpose under OEC 404(3) or OEC 404(4), a special instruction may have to be drafted. See also the comment at UCrJI No. 1022.

DEFENDANT NOT TESTIFYING

A defendant has an absolute constitutional right not to testify. Therefore, a defendant's decision not to testify cannot be considered as an indication of guilt. It should not be commented on or in any way considered by you in your deliberations.

[A defendant also has an absolute constitutional right not to present any evidence. Therefore, a defendant's decision not to present any evidence cannot be considered as an indication of guilt. It should not be commented on or in any way considered by you in your deliberations.]

COMMENT: See State v. Lakeside, 277 Or 569, 588, 561 P2d 612 (1977), aff'd, 435 US 333 (1978); State v. Hale, 22 Or App 144, 145, 537 P2d 1173 (1975).

When a defendant who has not testified requests the jury to be told that the defendant has an absolute right not to testify and that the failure to testify cannot be considered, the instruction must be given. Hale, 22 Or App at 145.

The second paragraph of this instruction should be given only when the defendant has not presented any evidence and when the defendant requests that it be given.

The Oregon Supreme Court has advised that this instruction should not be given unless the defendant, or at least one of the codefendants in a joint trial, requests it. Lakeside, 277 Or at 588 n 10.

Hi Spencer –

As discussed, and agreed upon, here are some of my favorite art periods/what they are about and artists I also enjoy.

I like modern art, impressionism, pop art, dada, modernism, realism, baroque, photorealism, gothic art, kinetic art and street art.

Some of my favorite artists include: Kehinde Wiley, OSGEMEOS, Georges Seurat, paul Signac, Piet Mondrian, Marcel Duchamp, Jasper Johns, Paul Ganguin, Henri Matisse, Pablo Picasso, Diego Rivera, Kara Walker, Amy Sherald, Lynette Yiadom-Boakye, Njideka Akunyili Crosby, Jennifer Packer, Gustav Klimt, Angelica Kauffman...to name a few. There are many.

Since you asked about Dad specifically → Dada or Dadaism was an art movement of the European avant-garde in the early 20th century, with early centers in Zürich, Switzerland, at the Cabaret Voltaire (in 1916). New York Dada began c. 1915,[2][3] and after 1920 Dada flourished in Paris. Dadaist activities lasted until the mid-1920s. Developed in reaction to World War I, the Dada movement consisted of artists who rejected the logic, reason, and aestheticism of modern capitalist society, instead expressing nonsense, irrationality, and anti-bourgeois protest in their works.[4][5][6] The art of the movement spanned visual, literary, and sound media, including collage, sound poetry, cut-up writing, and sculpture.

The Dadaist movement included public gatherings, demonstrations, and publication of art/literary journals; passionate coverage of art, politics, and culture were topics often discussed in a variety of media. Key figures in the movement included Jean Arp, Johannes Baader, Hugo Ball, Marcel Duchamp, Max Ernst, Elsa von Freytag-Loringhoven, George Grosz, Raoul Hausmann, John Heartfield, Emmy Hennings, Hannah Höch, Richard Huelsenbeck, Francis Picabia, Man Ray, Hans Richter, Kurt Schwitters, Sophie Taeuber-Arp, Tristan Tzara, and Beatrice Wood, among others. The movement influenced later styles like the avant-garde and downtown music movements, and groups including Surrealism, nouveau réalisme, pop art and Fluxus.[16]

And finally, things I enjoy: music, exercise and animals. I hope this helps build some rapport for our next session. See you either this upcoming Wednesday or no later than the following Wednesday (the 18th).

-Anna

I must inform you - you are being held hostage by the false Narrative against mankind. Believe me, and most importantly Believe in yourself. I am an emissary from the Heart of the Earth with The Most important message:
Human Nature, your inner most being ~~is love~~ stripped naked of all conditionings and false securities is boundless love for all life. Unfortunately many only awaken to this realization for a fleeting instance when confronted with death: Tears of Sorrow and joy mix and we are lost in the purest wonder of a helpless babe/infant. Breathless and filled with Surreal Awe, we return to a state of "control" with a firm Belief - conviction that this is not yet the end. / Unfortunately a belief can be an evil thing, if it allows/enables us to de-humanize, degrade or de-empathize another Human/life-form. Many Hold onto such harmful beliefs: all are evil or sinners, men are violent and deceptive, lazy and manipulative, Selfish, etc. //// Please Soften your Heart and consider ~~our~~ your impact & responsibility to your family, the Earth and the future.. I tried warning people/informing with efficient/concise imagery and caption (memes) such as: you

But my own internal Rage ~~got the best of me, I could not effectively focus~~ and received ~~few~~ little feedback - I began to think everyone must be complacent, willfully so in such pressing times (with all this privilege, resource & tech @ our disposal we neglect our fellow man), in a deliberate conspiracy against me.. [About my daughters whereabouts health or safety] a ~~worthless~~ dead/psuedo community - whats the point of communication if we cant help someone in need? They meet our cries with a deferment of responsibility or worse a mockery & attempt to instigate and increase our rage.. its no wonder ~~school~~ shootings are so common

OSCI Intake Information

Name: Barrett, Spencer Joseph SID#: 22418875 Housing Assignment: DS-07B

Your Institution Counselor is: Mr. O'Brien

Current Classification is: 1☐ 2☐ 3☒ 4☐ 5☐

Current Incentive level is: 1☒ 2☐ 3☐

Projected Release Date: 2/9/2024 Maximum Release Date: 6/10/2024

Automated Criminal Risk Score (ACRS):
Your score is automatically calculated at Coffee Creek Intake Center (CCIC) and is based upon the following: age, earned time, revocations, sentence length, custody number, thefts committed, prior incarcerations, and person to person crimes. The score is recalculated whenever any of these items change.

Your personal ACRS score is .22. Your score helps to determine eligibility for programming while in the Oregon Department of Corrections and the level of counselor contact you receive.

High/Medium Caseload:
If your ACRS score is .35 and above, you will be placed on call-out and be seen by your assigned institution counselor in person within 7-10 working days.

Low Supervision:
If you have an ACRS score of .34 and below you will be placed on your institution counselor's ow supervision caseload. What this means: You will not meet with your counselor on a regular basis and will only be seen for emergencies or unusual circumstances. Any reporting will be via written communication. If you need an in-person meeting, please provide specific details as to the nature of your request. A request that states "I need to see you," will not suffice for an in-person call-out.

Earned Time Reviews: (Also known as 6 month and final reviews)
All earned time reviews and final reviews will be completed by your prison term analyst (PTA) with the offender information and sentence computation (OISC) unit located at Coffee Creek Correctional Facility. Reviews are conducted every 6 months beginning on your admit date. A Final review is completed 4 months prior to your projected release date. You will not receive any paperwork about your review unless your release date has changed due to non-compliance with programming or you've been found in violation of a level 1 or 2 misconduct.

Inspector General [ROUGH DRAFT] 10.26.23 forward to Gov, omsbud, mom, innocent other

1. ~~wish to appeal~~ Petition for admin. Review of 10/24/23 ~9am (Hearing on "disobedience of an order" OSCI 10/19/23 0927)

2. WHEREFORE, (I WAS JUST MADE AWARE) my "Behavioral choice" from 7/7/23 earned me a guilty ruling of Contraband 1 (would have been nice to be warned that or the fine!) (Kite from Counselor OBrien 10-26-23)

1.1. I was not taken to Segregation because: "[I] ~~posed~~ created a threat to the security and safety of the facility" as is stated in the misconduct report. I requested Segregation / Protective Custody because my life has been threatened. (should be apparent by details in assault letter)

2.1. help you understand how poorly managed Prison / OSP ~~created a~~ [creates a nasty catch-22]. 1. I first arrive and am asked to share ~~details~~ paperwork of my conviction because he's in a gang, wants to know, already knows my full name from introduction (even if I knew now how common people are persecuted as Snitches or Sex offenders w/ no evidence I would make the choice to Segregate) 2. He shares his discovery photos, he recieved 40 months for smashing a woman's head in with a sledge hammer, for snitching on him. (~~no matter what move if~~ I were to move / request move I know my name would be tarnished as snitch - even when I do request to move guards pay me no attention/assistance help.. So I cant trust the Prison to help me. or the ~~cel~~ paranoid cell mate & his Gang - ~~but it~~ it actually appears safer to join a gang because guards dont help. (WWYD)

8. Cruel & Unusual Punishment: deliberate indiff. to my safety & pleas for help.

14. Lack of Due Process - take away ~~STTL~~, threaten to take good time (extortion)

WHY I DID ~~NOT~~ INITIALLY TELL/RAT/SNITCH: you guys are going after the results / symptoms not the causes → [CONCLUSION] I do not want to persecute these individuals but the greater problem of Gangs controlling prison

(If the authority shows indifference / if I have no one to trust for Protection its no wonder people join gangs or hold back the full truth. ☆

WE*

→ add list of names /// Its a joke drugs & gangs even exist in a "MAX SECURITY" not doing their jobs, seeking solutions to better manage

Letter

"Oh, I feel sick! My head pounds and my body aches! Why do I feel this way - it must be this cage, the injustice! Or is it an astral attack of disease perpetrated by the evil whispers of others: I can hear their insults and mockery, I can see their violence and harm to me!" ~~You~~ " "You posit 'Top-Down' (Thoughts from the head/cognition effecting the body) but lets work Bottom up (Body effecting the head/thoughts), yes - what you claim may be true, a predators gaze or the harmful-thoughts/hurting-heart of another can be sensed through time and space (Quantum Love & Prayer also has its counter/opposite), and yet the lack of Logic and Confined Space is surely frustrating and limiting to the body, But you can still perform minimal exercise of body and breath to regain control/command" "Master, why must I continue to fall down this path again & again. I fear my memory is failing me if I continue discovering this again and again." "Even if all memory is lost, we can and shall create the Space/Environment which naturally encourages (End the Schism) even the most forgetful and undisciplined by thinking Systematically and not so egotistically. From ego-centric to Outer-centric, just as Galileo revealed our solar (not earth) centric orbit - funny though, because both are correct or incorrect to a degree: our smaller body orbits a larger body, which orbits an even larger body (and even that one seems to be orbitting one larger! (and beyond that as well! planetary → solar → galactic → universe!)]" "Simply being able to Vent to you has calmed much tension" "Yes, ventillation is essential! But I personally prefer Preventative Medicine... Seemingly/Effectively prefer Strangled, now you can breathe! But lets try ~~practicing~~ cultivating healthy habits through healthy environments to decrease/prevent reaching such extremes! (End the Schism by systematic designs/solutions to previously thought individual failures - Set the human up to succeed (flourish Naturally...)

"I am confused, or maybe just afraid to begin. I am scared of losing it all again and again, must I continuously have to build it back up?" "We are entering/in an age where doing so is much easier - be thankful you are not ~~forced~~ compelled/obligated to write the same story over and over again, God bless the Scribes of Ancient times and their efforts to preserve the Sacred: Earth & knowledge! Now you can copy something with such ease!" "I wanted to tell a story about friendship, human nature and dreams but I am aware of such likely/threatening impending catastrophe's - I sense my efforts are better spent on real-world action & Emergency preparedness/awareness efforts, because if we are not prepared our whole species our whole planet could be wiped-out/eliminated/destroyed. If that happens, not just my own work, but all of ours would be for nothing!" "Unless their existed a cosmic, indestructible memory/data base/library/ripple/footprint/echo/vibration - ~~but enou~~ Sorry, enough of my Science fiction Theorizing, lets discuss something real/provable/repeatable/tangible/concrete which we can do to mitigate your worries and possible ~~disa~~ Catastrophe. it all depends on a timeline, dont you see? If a global event were suddenly approaching this tale would be fool hearty indeed and efforts might be better spent sending out letters to various parties warning to Unite in our preparation against" "I actually just did that today "Public Health Revolution" flier to my mom maybe she can/will cc: to other parties for me, if they are indeed mailing my letters... Now thats taken care of - Back to my story on friendship.. I remember quoting to Mckenna my 'enlightened' realization that our true master is our best friend. I brought this up ~~because~~ while remembering my reason for accepting an invitation to attend/join/visit/live at a Temple dedicated to Spirituality/monkhood/Bhakti Yoga/Krsna consciousness detailed in the Vedas but Specifically in the Bhagavad-Gita a passage most forwardly recommends/commands students seeking after the prized jewel of enlightenment/end to suffering must submit to be a student of an enlightened master.. I also remember reading that one of the excuses for the hairstyle to maintain a circular patch of hair on the crowning spot of the head was for your master to yank/tug you/student towards heaven. I didnt take it literally (but unfortunately experienced the pain/act of being drug by my hair/dragged/ ~~tugged~~ (off feet and on ground for a distance by "Weather")) yet saw it as a Spiritual and possibly correlated Cognitive function related to that area of our brain/skull, as it is also the spot I believe left unsealed at birth and which slowly closes/fuses as we age our first years... One other ~~excuse~~ reason was a symbolic gesture of where a holy calf placed its hoof, and was to mimic a hoof in design/appearance.. Interesting my father told me a story of m19 being stepped on by a cow, when I was younger (a3-4?) and his fears of my paralysis (potential), I do not think that is the reason for my "Sway back"/Lardosis, likely genetic from moms side, but I do see how maybe the cow had actually excorsized little demon-possessed/reckless me by literally grounding me as a lesson of animal kingdom authority, consequences and maybe even genuine concern and like it would to its own young, not dangerously so or damaging but enough force to strike fear.. This is based on a lot of assumptions about my behavior at that time which I honestly cant remember, was I calm & Sensitive amidst the herd or rough and obnoxious? or was there a miss understanding between myself and a cow at their proper social etiquette and rules of engagement which I was blissfully ignorant of, innocently so, but still warranting correction. Regardless, though I dont remember that experience, I do remember one very similar to it, which after some time I began to think was a direct re-enactment/~~genetic~~-trauma memory/PTSD: When I had officially spent my first night alone, backpacking ~~on~~ asleep on the ~~si~~grassy clearing, South side top of Dimple hill. Although I attempted once before while RV camping with my family a bit of (marijuana induced) fear for wolves crept in and I remember arriving back @ sunset to a plate of warm dinner from mom. My pack that/those 1st times was ridiculously overpacked (somehow carrying between 80-100 lbs) hardly made it a mile or so out to some hills that first attempt. The first success was met w/ better planning, familiar territory, lighter pack and my black lab. Abby. The strangest part from that night under the stars, besides my sleep paralysis while laying on my stomach, the sound of Heavy hooves approaching, from the rear and stepping on my back, unable to move or talk, finally I gained the strength to push myself up as it/my back tingled/kinda felt like it entered, the strangest part being when I awoke in a fright my dog was no where nearby and only after calling repeatedly did I see her coming out of the trees 100+ yards away.. at first spooked, now I like to imagine much of my life path being guided by a forest spirit that came at that moment in the shape of a stag/deer. Well, I forgot to return to the point of the story- Friendship, and my quoting the bhagavad gita to mckenna but with the realization that her being my partner who I proposed ~~for~~ to and married, my best friend was both equally my Master and Student ~~and~~ as I also was to her-. Oh, what a journey since then! Bhakti-yoga can be translated as love/devotion yoga and what little I (or anyone!) knew about love before ~~having~~ losing touch with my child-

I wrote about "The first time I dropped Luci" which should've been titled "the first and only", because so painful/regretable/sad/heart-wrenching was that moment when Mckenna handed her to me and she wiggled/arched/stiffened her back and fell out my grasp ~~to a~~ a short distance 1-2 ft but onto a hard wood floor. Immediately calling my father who lightened the mood (fear/panic of what had been an obvious concussion and short period of unconscious followed by a quarter size bump on her frontal left lobe and a single brief vomit "They dont make them like they used to!" (insinuating babies of the past held up through much more physical trials and error) after that I immediately bought her a soft padded helmet to protect her precious head. It wasnt as unflattering as it sounds, they make slim cute designed ones and the brain is so precious at that stage (1-3) rapidly growing, I'm surprised more parents dont utilize one. Although she didnt where it as often as I would've liked, I never dropped her again or saw her with signs of concussion or head injury - and seeing Mckenna so visibly concerned/crying out loud in panic should make me less suspicious or afraid of nightmares where Mckenna tosses Luci a few feet, hits her head effecting her memory or pushes her down stairs. I do remember before any of that questioning why she sometimes hit her own head with both hands (an apparently common behavior on Google search results/forums) which I later suspected being a result from unknown reasons for crying and a tired (even admittedly suicidal/post-partum) new mother with little to no support network & family. That experience and these fears will always remain in a aching part of my heart that cries for the needless/senseless cultural baggage/rush/traumas we place on our could be Einstien/DaVinci/Generation of Enlightened But our Torturous car seats, rush-hour/rat-race impatience, sleep deprived carelessness/temper & regretful disregard for a most rewarding / blessed life experience and bonding. I't truly takes a village to remind one and give the support to not miss-out on the most priceless moments. Even though I couldn't be there for Lili to keep her safe, to chart and encourage her development to play and make memories I have awoken to how prevalent and needlessly so many children are neglected to a much greater degree. I can't help but remember a recurring phrase: if they really cared about the children they would ______ (Spend more time raising awareness, educating waking parents up to the cruelty of a and wastefulness of a culture that encourages / forces us to choose between a job / decent living and our kids. Deep down no parent wants to miss out (coffee creek death of mother who tossed kids off bridge to get back at Father? - that and other examples of mental disease or a product of systematically produced desperation and its our collective responsibility to ensure as much support (REAL AUTHENTIC COMMUNITY) as possible)) IF THEY REALLY CARED they would work to solve the CAUSES not persecute / needlessly attack the Results / symptoms because another will just fill their space. like a criminal or drug dealer.. This is hard to help people understand, how bad things are born to fill an unmet need in a system and will keep being born / finding a place / purpose / customers / living until we collectively become conscious of the Bigger Picture and take the time to work with and understand our fellow man. This is something I'm intimately passionate about, as deep down we all are, truly, as an inborn primal need to secure the safety and future for our children - we only need to be careful to awaken to it without dehumanizing / degrading / instigating / accusing our fellow who by Nature contains the same family mammalian tribal urge. Yes there are strange tribes of cannibalism and other practices we would consider Taboo / criminal today - lets understand a lack of education & tools creates desperation and - a sexist past based on physical domination creates the need for and ultimate purpose of civilization. If its all a farce/lie: justice and law - crafted by the rich and powerful to subdue/pacify the masses, then atleast we have gained visibly the advantages towards justice, where not everything is based on physical prowess but also now intellectuals of diverse types can gain a foothold for their inventions and art. Those who seek the fantasy of anarchy or chaos by dismantling civilization are hopelessly depraved and delusional because neither exist: there is no chaos, all things are the effect of a cause, a reaction to an action, a big chain reaction of events and anarchy doesnt exist because if civilization and technology were to fall we would merely revert back to the dark ages of feudal kingdoms and armies led by the rich & powerful (which finally technology and civilization are in the process of eliminating through civil/servile/human rights + currently the courts and government are still largely/entirely controlled by the rich & powerful who may in fact desire that idea of chaos and anarchy from destroying the ability for the masses to communicate and self govern via modern technology. This is all relevant if we are to prepare against all possible disasters. But sadly, if they control our communications as much as I have personally been victim to, then there may be little we can do, especially if they constantly disband/dissolve social movements and groups/unions that threaten their elitist/globalist economy through deep state military provocateurs and detractors/distractors which I have also been victim of on numerous occasions, most obviously beginning with Cascadia NOW Chapter creation. But now I will go back to the spirit of friendship, and love and dreams and hopes which began to devolve/lose focus or optimism after page 5.. which began with "The first time I dropped Luci" and which reminds me of the first time I dropped Lucy, aka LSD-25, synthetic ergot with a friend Aden in the summer of '12. I have not had an experience like it since and for that reason doubt any true LSD is available on the streets for a very obvious authoritarian reason: my mind was completely clear/functional; more lucid than waking life, my "shutter speed" (camera term) slowed as my eyes dilated but it didnt effect my coordination or balance so much as give me a more realistic perspective of how life really was. Everything was alive or atleast visibly breathing, more akin to a wave-like (not static) reality of being underwater, the air had a visible current and tidal effect/swaying relationship with the trees and plants. Everything was moving in symphony, concert and connection with eachother, the birds and insects, flowers and leaves, even the moss and lichen seemed to not only be alive and responsive but lovingly open to my touch and presence and supportive of my existence. I could see the faintest trails of rainbow light from every moving object and wished I could always see things in such a way. I climbed an ancient oak tree and went biking on the town with my friend. We spoke very little but smiled a lot, ~~tttt~~ and I felt we were so aware and confident of the amazing shared experience that words really wouldnt do this justice. We got Pizza at American Dream and the psychedelic artwork of the local shop had me intensely curious about the power of this drug in awakening consciousness, the 60's, anti-war, environmentalism, Civil Rights movement and music festivals. I decided my girlfriends parents judgements against cannabis were unwarranted, I broke up with my girlfriend and

- fantasized about Hippy life and free love... it only took a very short time for me to beg to have her take me back, but the damage was done, her heart was broken and I had a Spiritual journey ahead of me and a conviction that was further strengthened by an intense out of body experience where I was blinded by light coming from or towards my crossed-eyes/3rd eye vision of the Suns light through green leaves after a shivering energetic awakening of kundalini from head to toe. All from ~8-10 HBWR (Hawaiian baby woodrose seeds) a butt of Marijuana & a peaceful patch of grass amidst the trees and sound of a flowing creek... Between those 2 experiences which solidified my own Spiritual knowledge/rebirth/past-early life Memories (2012 to ~ may 2013) I had some very depressing lonely experiences in College despite being surrounded by so many (or maybe because of it, feeling their lost & confused souls embarking on a well worn but daunting path to adulthood) I got the priviledge to learn outdoor survival & leadership, calculus, to frequently inebriate and attend some unforgettable lectures on Neuroscience. I also got to join a U of O & worldwide renown psychologist for her book reading concerning research into a topic known as "Blind to Betrayal", funny enough, when I appeared at the church meeting I was the only young person and the only male but they warmly accepted me and my Skateboard with refreshments at hand and a circle of chairs - I believe her name is Jennifer? Freyd (lastname) and her discoveries are remarkably relevant and helpful in understanding the human condition since birth and by necessity to remain blind/forgetful to Betrayal/Trauma perpetrated by our Caretaker/loved ones. It reveals how many of us continue to stay in a - 9

relationship or blind to the wrongs of them or others, continuously leaving us vulnerable to being taken advantage of / led-astray / misguided... Now I'd like to return to the 2 most powerfully awakening psychedelic experiences I had, despite much more ventures with mushrooms LSD is known to be more potent / mind altering / powerful - and to clear up any prejudice / ignorance of free-love that was more a matter of ~~open relationship~~ plant medicine* mystery consciousness 60's than an obsession with sex, also that changed after the 2nd blinding experience which drove me to seek understanding through research, the bible fasting and prayer and soon after a baptism & journey to a temple to become a monk, until, to make a long story short, I saw the Spiritual leaders as too callused and insecure, unlike the description of enlightened (all-loving) master which I knew I would know or feel when confronted / in-the-presence of and honestly found that friendship on the Beach as I needed an escape found a friend with an interest in rescuing a runaway monk as well as engaging in forest backpacking excursions. Wow, that took a while to write about what initially was to be a short novel "help them dream; give them the dream", to inspire visions and possibilities for the future & world Peace - which I hope to share ideas of benefits of better / future / scientific / healthful / environmental cities / co-operatives of the future (People need to stop rushing around in this illusion of productivity, we already have everything we could ask for in front of us - lets not lose it!).. But then I really wanted to focus on friendship and was reminded how I lost some, never truly lost, true love will re-kindle - I just wish I knew how my daughter was doing, even if she didn't want to talk, just knowing she was happy would be fine

It is 11/4, 4 days after writing the initial 10 pages on the night of Hollow's eve / Halloween. Light fasting: only few raw vegetables for Dinner, no lunch & Eggs & roll w/ oatmeal breakfast! Wow, how concentration can stress the heart, when I forget to breathe as in moments of being triggered as just recently by hearing a nearby conversation "Central City Concerns, I remembered it because CCC, hire addicts and everyone..." frustrated/annoyed/insulted @ the Bait and Lack of education/sensitivity or my failure to better articulate CC True Community (not psuedo comm.) formal & Systematic thinking: And I wondered why they have so much trouble focusing on themselves instead of an overly ambitious/excitable fantasy of me - and I remember why & when I have trouble focusing on myself when surrounded by threats of an authoritative/oppressive/dominating figure, which happens to be basic behaviorism for primal mating styles/relations and even our current military command structure (based on Submission/subordination). Those who never learn trust or are so distracted from Peace in meeting their most basic needs (always seeking a surrogate activity, ever restless) or are stuck in Primal Power Complex and obsession over Control (control-freak) HAVE AN IMPOSSIBLE TIME working with another free-thinker, incapable of brain-storming or synthesizing multiple ideas/perspectives simply become frustrated/overwhelmed at their inability to engage in multifaceted democratic communication. Subconsciously I have become an authority to them and they cannot unfocus from me to focus on them-selves and so they've devised numerous narratives where I - am but a reflection of their own. And so I am persecuted as they ~~would~~ persecute themselves. Well, all this is/has been vented and I had given up on a biography or editing my previous 10 pages due to a limitation of envelopes. But maybe I will still send it out regardless. To be used as a scribe as they frantically miss the point and disrespect me by taking my own writings away - THIS IS FOR THE COLLECTIVE, they have infringed on my private copyright priviledges, they have stolen from the collective (once again). THEY = YOU federal/governmental agent who refuses transparency or accountability for your own involvment in a gross delay of World Peace and ignorant prolonging of mass death/disease/destruction. Now I seek TRANSPARENCY & FREE FLOW of INFORMATION as essential in self discovery and elevating consciousness. How unfortunate it is that many, so terrified of the surveilling Police state might never put their inner thoughts on paper (or any other visible medium/record) because SURELY if God exists, then (Matt 6:8) (he/she /is already knows whats in your head) so, in that case, "release the cracken!" Open "pandoras" box, learn/show the FAILURE OF LANGUAGE? The devastating effect of transference and missing people's unconscious fears/projections/ideas of you. THE FALSE NARRATIVE HOLDS US ALL HOSTAGE! SO WE NEED OBJECTIVITY & UNIVERSAL LANGUAGE not subject to such misinterpretations!

" Towards: It is 11/4, 4 days after writing the initial 10

I did not do a sufficient job of describing the importance of or relevancy of my psychedelic experiences to friendship, human nature & dreams. Because of your own disbelief (YOU, Reader, not SJB, FATHER COMPLEX IS REAL - why doesnt he believe in me - oh I already know - his own father complex & disbelief in his self (a horrible chain reaction)

9.20 - Bhagavad : 9.28 : drink the Soma juice"

So how are psychedelics relevant? (Revelation 2:7, 17, 28) fruit from the tree of life, manna hidden away in heaven, & the morning star. + (John 3:3, 5, 19:14, 18:3). Studies show mushrooms can help with Depression & PTSD. It seems as we age, we many stop questioning, discovering - They become set in their ways and believe they know everything. They become addicted to own perspective/angle on life. Many "conservatives" blame addicts without recognizing their own addictive life-style choices. Their own kind of drunkenness" even though they abstain from external intoxicants their own Haughty/anal retentiveness creates its own hormonal concoction. They remain addicted to dehumanizing & deficient beliefs inorder to distance themselves from sympathizing with the downtrodden. This has helped them succeed in an unnatural way of life filled with psuedo community, psuedo security & psuedo morality. Even those religious who teach turning the other cheek are quicker to be the one slapping! They profit from teaching servitude/slavery but miss the point. I am proud to say I am addicted to Humanity, to other people ("Co-Dependant") even if I was "led astray" as some may consider and I am proud to be addicted to Marijuana and its ability to open hearts & heal harm

COURSE 1 — TEST FOR LESSON 8

1. Check the correct statements. Faith is– T a. trusting beyond what we can see.
   T b. involved in our everyday living.
   F c. daring to take our own way.
   T d. a gift from God.

2. Name three things that hinder faith.
   a. Doubt b. Worry c. Fear

3. Mark each statement true or false. Our faith grows by– T a. exercising it in daily living.
   T b. reading the Bible.
   T c. learning from the experiences of others.
   F d. trying to forget our problems.

4. Write several sentences about some fears and worries for which you must trust God for strength.

   I must trust god for strength when I fear for my loved ones health & safety when I cant get ahold of them. I must trust god when I worry what the day might hold for me in Prison when around constant danger, fights and threatening criminals. I must trust god when I experience cruelty from prison guards/staff. I must trust god when I worry about the world at large, modern slavery and natural or manmade disasters like environmental pollution/collapse. I must trust god for strength to help prepare peace on earth for christ's arrival.

   - b. A person is born physically of human parents, but he is born Spiritually of the spirit.
2. Mark true or false.
   - T a. Jesus came to die for us on the cross.
   - T b. Jesus took our guilt upon Himself.
   - T c. Jesus' love keeps us in the family of God.
   - F d. Jesus' forgiveness makes it all right to sin.
3. Mark true or false. Belonging to God's family means we–
   - T a. live Christlike lives.
   - T b. care about others around us.
   - F c. give up citizenship in the world.
   - T d. struggle against evil in the world.
4. Recall the last time someone helped you to turn feelings of hate into love, fear into trust, loneliness into comfort. Explain what your friend did or said that helped you.

My mom bought me the "Prisoners Self-help Litigation Manual" and turned my feelings of hate towards injustice into love for purpose and hope in my ability to litigate, complain, and use my civil liberties to help make progress for all suffering unjust conditions of confinement. Very Good

1. Mark true or false.

 T a. God knows what we are capable of becoming.

 T b. To think positively we must fill our minds with good thoughts.

 T c. A successful person strives for certain goals.

2. Complete the following sentence from Romans 12:2: ". . . let God transform you inwardly by a complete change of your mind."

3. Mark true or false. True success is–

 F a. meeting the world's standards of progress.

 F T b. reaching the goals we set for ourselves. (this can be good IF they're God's goals for us but if it's just what I want, it's not true success.)

 T c. being free to enjoy life around us.

 F d. staying busy at our work all the time.

4. Think ahead to a time when you will be facing someone with authority over you (supervisor, officer of the law, etc.). Tell what differences your attitudes can make when you meet with this person.

Excellent

1. Write in your own words what Isaiah 41:10 says.

Have no fear for I am your God and I will protect you

2. Check the correct statements. We look to Daniel as an example because he–

 ✓ a. served God faithfully.

 ___ b. obeyed the king's orders.

 ✓ c. prayed to God regularly.

3. Check the correct statements. Romans 12:9-21 tells us to– ___ a. submit to evil.

 ✓ b. show respect.

 ✓ c. work hard.

 ✓ d. accept humble duties.

 ___ e. take revenge.

 ✓ f. live peaceably.

4. The Lord told the Apostle Paul, "My grace is all you need for my power is strongest when you are weak" (2 Cor. 12:9). What does this promise mean to you? When we are weak we can learn humility & faith. Sometimes being weak and vulnerable is more advantageous than the intimidation of strength. And it helps us depend on God!

5. Tell about someone (teacher, parent, friend, employer, etc.) who helped you build self-confidence. What strengths do you have today as a result of this person's influence? My cross country coach was a man of faith who taught me to love running and to not see it as hard work or negative in any way but actually joyful and sometimes a challenge, but fun! I learned to endure and went on to run an ultra marathon (2014)

   c. Develop positive attitude

   d. Trust in Power of Prayer

   e. Setting of Love & appreciation for each other

4. Write a paragraph on what attracts you most when you think of choosing a church home.

   a. follows christ in all life b. express love & understanding freely c. help you respond genuinely to God d. reach out to others through christian service e. allow each to use abilities and gifts god has given

   It's regard or respect for earth/mother nature, which I believe is the garden of eden and god told us to "cultivate & care for it (p 9, course 1, Pt 1 s 3) (gen 2:15) — So if the church cares about the environment and protecting from its extinction - thats one for me!

Do you have any questions or comments? no

I encourage you to look for a church who teaches truth follows Jesus - living the Christian life not just talking. Just caring about the environment is not the test of a true church of God - any group could do that. -KS

1. Check the correct statements. We are like salt when we–
   - T a. brighten someone's day with a smile.
   - T b. care about the feelings of others.
   - F c. keep ourselves away from sinners.
   - T d. give encouraging words to those who hurt.

2. Check the correct statements. Returning good for evil means we–
   - ___ a. never argue.
   - ✓ b. love our enemies.
   - ✓ c. forgive others.
   - ___ d. demand justice.

3. Write a paragraph on what Jesus' teaching to return good for evil means to you.

   Its a good example for the Department of Corrections to follow – instead of treating criminals with Hate, violence, vengeance – we should show them love. Most causes of (if not all) crime is lack of being loved, feeling secure or having something good to trust in. Evil is really just the product of an unmet need for love, security, basics like food, shelter, good association. So to return good for evil is the most Christlike & educated (science, behaviorism) to set a good example – to show love to someone who may never have recieved anywhere near as much as you.

God has ordained that rulers are to punish evil – but prisoners can still be treated w/ love. When a Christian is wrongfully treated, he needs to be kind back – that is returning good for evil. – KS

what you said is all to true about why man does evil – but there are still consequences for our actions & God wants to set each one free & bring healing & love to all. – KS

1. Check the phrases that make this statement true. Christians communicate their faith best when they–
   ✓ a. experience God's love.
   ✓ b. allow Jesus to clean their lives.
   ✓ c. show God's love to others.
   ✓ d. rely on personal skills. we use skills but reliance needs to be on God

2. Give four reasons Christians share their faith in Jesus.
   a. Faith makes a difference
   b. Because we love
   c. We have the answer to lifes Questions
   d. God has asked us to share

3. List four things we experience in a richer way because of knowing God.
   a. Freedom c. Life
   b. Love d. Purpose

4. God has given us good news. Write what this good news means to you.
   God helps meet our every need by forgiving us we become freer from guilt and sin. By giving us a family in Christ we can feel more loved, even if our family ~~isn't~~ (birth family) didn't meet that need, we're given another chance with a larger spiritual family, no longer must we feel alone as long as we can connect & communicate with other christians/Believers. With faith, everything has meaning and we are filled with purpose, hope and love for life.

c Romans 6:23 | a. We need a change of attitude by being born of the Spirit.
a John 3:1-5 | b. We need to be set free by Christ.
b Romans 5:18 | c. We need to choose between spiritual death and eternal life.

2. Check the correct answers. Faith in Christ means– ✓ a. inviting Him into every area of life.
✓ b. committing ourselves to His way.
✓ c. believing that He died and rose again for us.
____ d. requiring our families to belong to Him.

3. Complete these questions from Romans 10:14.
a. "How can they call to him for help if they have not believed ?"
b. "How can they believe if they have not heard the message ?"
c. "How can they hear if the mesage is not proclaimed ?"

4. If your conversation with a friend turns to a discussion of faith, what will you tell your friend about your relation with God?

That god & the Spirit speak to me everyday and help me become conscious of major recurring themes effecting us all, my own internal problems & collective/external problems are exposed and solved with God's Love.

5. In what ways does the Holy Spirit help you share your faith?

The Holy Spirit compels me to speak my understanding and to witness and object to wrongs whether by my mouth & out loud or more commonly (in prison) silently by my heart – as many are not receptive, trusting or respectful enough to hear testimony in Prison. Sadly it is best to silently listen, and hope they can feel your forgiveness, hope & love.

   T c. Giving in order to control others is a wrong motive.

5. Jesus told the story of the Good Samaritan as an example of true love. Write a story you think Jesus might use today to illustrate true love.
   One father yelled at his children to behave, he punished them with a whipping and dismissed their injuries by saying whatever doesnt kill them will make them stronger. He laughed at their feelings as unreal and outrageous acts for attention. Our true father leads by loving example, he speaks with compassion and treats every error with patience and understanding, always ready to forgive yet still vigilant to discipline by reminder and example bringing them to truth from love not fear. He cared for every injury, physical and emotional, tending and healing all wounds to all God's children, free of charge.

Take note, theologians, that in your desire to make matters of faith out of propositions relating to the fixity of sun and earth you run the risk of eventually having to condemn as heretics those who would declare the earth to stand still and the sun to change position—eventually, I say, at such a time as it might be physically or logically proved that the earth moves and the sun stands still.

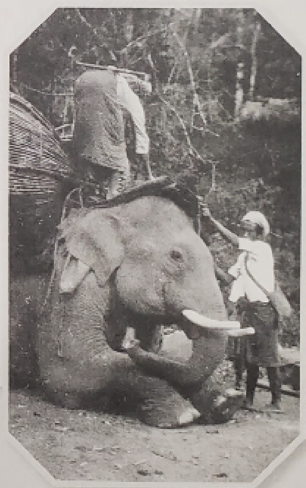
PART TWO

LOVE AND ELEPHANTS



Agostino Carracci - Love Conquers All

On the left side, a baby boy was beating up a much larger and more muscular satyr.

"I don't know," I said, unsure which side of the picture I was supposed to be learning from.

"That," my father said, pointing to the boy, "is Love."

He let it sink in.

"He's not supposed to be on your side. You fight with him; you try to undo what he does to others. But he's too powerful. No matter how much we suffer, Virgil says, our hardships cannot move him."

I'm not sure I ever completely understood the lesson my father was imparting. I got the simplest bit of it, I think: by trying to make Jenny Harlow fall head over heels for me, I was arm-wrestling Love, which my own cheap bracelet had been telling me was futile. But I sensed, even then, that my father was only using Jenny and Julius as an object lesson. What he really wanted to offer was a piece of wisdom he'd come by the hard way,

The portmaster—whom Curry called Genovese, for he never gave his name—gathered the rumors about Colonna circling through the wharf. He made a point of overhearing the conversations Colonna had with his local men, and learned that the wealthy Roman had come to Genoa to oversee the arrival of an important ship, whose cargo only Colonna knew. Genovese began bringing news of incoming ships to Colonna's day lodgings, where he once caught Colonna scribbling notes, which the Roman hid as soon as Genovese entered.

Had it been left at that, the portmaster's diary would've shed little light on the Hypnerotomachia. But the portmaster was a curious man, and as he grew impatient waiting for Colonna's ship to arrive, he sensed that the only way to discover the nobleman's intentions was to see Francesco's shipping documents listing the contents of the cargo. Finally he went to ask his brother-in-law, Antonio, a merchant who sometimes trafficked in pirated goods, if a thief might be hired to enter Colonna's lodgings and copy whatever could be found there. Antonio, in exchange for Genovese's help in another shipping scheme, agreed to help.

What Antonio found was that even the most desperate men would refuse the job upon mention of Colonna's name. The only one willing to do it was an illiterate pickpocket. As it happened, though, the pickpocket did his job well. He copied all three documents in Colonna's possession: the first was part of a story, which the portmaster found of no interest and never fully described; the second was a scrap of leather with a complicated diagram drawn on it, which was inscrutable to Genovese; and the third was a peculiar sort of map, consisting of the four cardinal directions, each followed by a set of units, which Genovese which he hoped to impress upon me while the stakes of my own failures were still small. My mother had warned me about misguided love, my father's affair with the Hypnerotomachia always in the back of her mind; and now my father was offering his counterpoint, riddled in Virgil and Chaucer. He knew exactly how she felt, he was saying; he may even have agreed. But how could he stop it, what power did he have against the force he was fighting, when Love conquered all?

I've never known which of the two of them was right. The world is a Jenny Harlow, I think; we're all just fishermen telling stories about the one that got away. But to this day, I'm not sure how Chaucer's Prioress interpreted Virgil, or how Virgil interpreted love. All that stays with me is the picture my father showed me, the part he never said a word about, where the two naked women are watching Love bully the satyr. I've always wondered why Carracci put two women in that engraving, when he only needed one. Somewhere in that is the moral I took from the story: in the geometry of love, everything is triangular. For every Tom and Jenny, there is a Julius; for every Katie and Tom, there is a Francesco Colonna; and the tongue of desire is forked, kissing two but loving one. Love draws lines between us like an astronomer plotting a constellation from stars, joining points into patterns that have no basis in nature. The butt of every triangle becomes the heart of another, until the roof of reality is a tessellation of love affairs. Taken together, they have the pattern of netting; and behind them, I think, is Love. Love is the only perfect fisherman, the one who casts the broadest net, which no fish can escape. His reward is to sit

"Above all, what were the 'divine things' alluded to in the introduction, which the Muses refused to divulge? What was the vengeful jealousy they feared these things might inspire?

"The answer is that this is no romance. The author must have intended something else—something that we scholars have as yet failed to understand. But where do we begin searching for it?

"I do not intend to answer that question for you. Instead, I will leave you with a puzzle of your own to muse over. Solve this, and you are one step closer to understanding what the Hypnerotomachia means."

With that, Taft triggers the slide machine with a pump of his palm on the remote. Three images appear over the screen, disarming in their stark black and white.

"These are three prints from the Hypnerotomachia, depicting a nightmare that Polia suffers late in the story. As she relates, the first shows a child riding a burning chariot into a forest, drawn by two naked women whom he whips was published. Rabelais made fun of it. Castiglione warned Renaissance men not to speak like Poliphilo when wooing women.

"Why, then, is it so difficult to understand? Because it contains not only Latin and Italian, but also Greek, Hebrew, Arabic, Chaldean, and Egyptian hieroglyphics. The author wrote in several of them at once, sometimes interchangeably. When those languages were not enough, he invented words of his own.

"In addition, there are mysteries surrounding the book. To begin with, until very recently no one knew who wrote it. The secret of the author's identity was so closely guarded that not even the great Aldus himself, its publisher, knew who'd composed his most famous work. One of the Hypnerotomachia's editors wrote an introduction to it in which he asks the Muses to reveal the author's name. The Muses refuse. They explain that 'it is better to be cautious, to keep divine things from being devoured by vengeful jealousy.'

"My question to you, then, is this: Why would the author have gone to such trouble if he were writing nothing more than a bucolic romance? Why so many languages? Why two hundred pages on architecture? Why eighteen pages on a temple of Venus, or twelve on an underwater labyrinth? Why fifty on a pyramid? Or another hundred and forty on gems and metals, ballet and music, food and table settings, flora and fauna?

"Perhaps more important, what Roman could have learned so much about so many subjects, mastered so many languages, and convinced the greatest printer in Italy to publish his mysterious book without so much as mentioning his name?

like beasts. Polia looks on from her hiding place in the woods.

"The second print shows the child releasing the women by slicing their red-hot chains with an iron sword. He then thrusts the sword through each of them, and once they are dead, he dismembers them.

"In the final print, the child has torn out the still-beating hearts of the two women from their corpses and fed them to birds of prey. The innards he feeds to eagles. Then, after quartering the bodies, he throws the rest to the dogs, wolves, and lions that have gathered about.

"When Polia awakens from this dream, her nurse explains that the child is Cupid, and that the women were young maidens who offended him by refusing the affections of their suitors. Polia deduces that she has been wrong to rebuff Poliphilo."

Taft pauses, turning his back to the audience in order to contemplate the enormous images that seem to float in the air at his back.

"But what if we suppose that the explicit meaning is not the real meaning?" he says, his back still to us, in a disembodied voice that resonates through the microphone on his chest. "What if the nurse's interpretation of the dream is not, in fact, the right one? What if we were to use the punishment inflicted on these women to decipher what their crime truly was?

"Consider a legal punishment for high treason that survived among certain European nations for centuries before and after the Hypnerotomachia was written. A criminal convicted of high treason was first drawn—meaning that he was tied to the tail of a horse and dragged across the ground through the city. He was brought in this way

Gentle reader, hear Poliphilo tell of his dreams, Dreams sent by the highest heaven.
You will not waste your labour, nor will listening irk you,
For this wonderful work abounds in so many things.
If, grave and dour, you despise love-stories,
Know, I pray, that things are well ordered herein.
You refuse? But at least the style, with its novel language, Grave discourse and wisdom, commands attention.
If you refuse this, too, note the geometry,
The many ancient things expressed in Nilotic signs . . .
Here you will see the perfect palaces of kings,
The worship of nymphs, fountains and rich banquets.
The guards dance, dressed in motley, and the whole
Of human life is expressed in dark labyrinths.

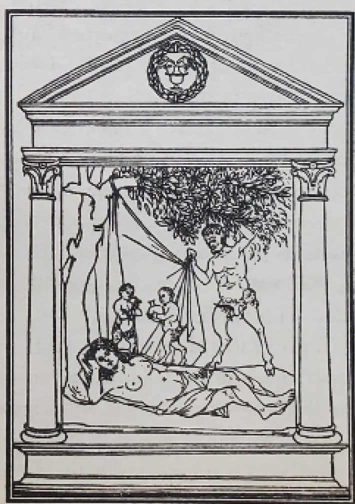
Hypnerotomachia Poliphili

If it seems surprising, then, that I changed my mind the next morning, and joined Paul in his work, chalk it up to a dream I had the night after he told me about the riddle. There is a woodcut in the Hypnerotomachia that will always stay in the stowage of my early childhood, a print that I bumped into many times after sneaking into my father's office to investigate what he was studying. It's not every day that a boy sees a naked woman reclining under a tree, looking up at him as he returns the favor. And I imagine no one, outside the circle of Hypnerotomachia scholars, can say he has ever seen a naked satyr standing at the feet of such a woman, with a horn of a penis extended like a compass needle in her direction. I was twelve when I saw that picture for the first time, all alone in my father's office, and I could suddenly imagine why



"Tom, it can't be an accident. Not something this big. This is what your father was looking for. All we have to do is figure it out. I want your help."

"Why?"

Now a curious certainty entered his voice, as if he understood something about the Hypnerotomachia that he'd overlooked before. "The book rewards different kinds of thought. Sometimes patience works, attention to detail. But other times it takes instinct and inventiveness. I've read some of your conclusions on Frankenstein. They're good. They're original. And you didn't even break a sweat. Just think about it. Think about the riddle. Maybe you'll come up with something else. That's all I'm asking."

There was a simple reason why I rejected Paul's offer that night. In the landscape of my childhood, Colonna's book was a deserted mansion on a hill, a foreboding shadow over any nearby thought. Every unpleasant mystery of my youth seemed to trace its origins to those same unreadable pages: the unaccountable absence of my father from our dinner table so many nights as he labored at his desk; the old arguments he and my mother lapsed into, like saints falling into sin; even the inhospitable oddness of Richard Curry, who fell for Colonna's book worse than any man, and never seemed to recover. I couldn't understand the power the Hypnerotomachia exerted over everyone who read it, but in my experience that power always seemed to play out for the worse. Watching Paul struggle for three years, even if it culminated in this breakthrough, had only helped me keep my distance.

he sometimes came to dinner late. Whatever this was, strange and wonderful, beef potluck had nothing on it.

It returned to me that night, the woodcut of my childhood—woman lounging, satyr stalking, member rampant—and I must have done a lot of turning in my bunk, because Paul looked down from his and asked, "You okay, Tom?"

Coming to, I rose and shot through the books on his desk. That penis, that misplaced horn, reminded me of something. There was a connection to be made. Colonna knew what he was talking about. Someone had given Moses horns.

I found the answer in Hartt's History of Renaissance Art. I'd seen the picture before, but never made anything of it.

"What are these?" I asked Paul, tossing the book up to his bunk, pointing at the page.

He squinted. "Michelangelo's statue of Moses," he said, staring at me as if I'd lost my mind. "What's wrong, Tom?"

Then, before I even had to explain, he stopped short and turned on his bedside light.

"Of course . . ." he whispered. "Oh my God, of course."

Sure enough, in the photo I'd shown him, two little nubs stuck out the top of the statue's head, like goatish satyr horns.

Paul jumped down from the bunk, loudly enough that I waited for Gil and Charlie to appear. "You did it," he said, eyes wide. "This must be it."

He continued like that for a while, until I started to feel an uncomfortable sense of dislocation, wondering how Colonna could've put the answer to his riddle on a Michelangelo sculpture.

"So why are they there?" I asked finally.

But Paul was already far ahead. He yanked the book off his bunk and showed me the explanation in the text. "The horns have nothing to do with being a cuckold. The riddle was literal: who gave Moses horns? It's from a mistranslation of the Bible. When Moses comes down from Mount Sinai, Exodus says, his face glows with rays of light. But the Hebrew word for 'rays' can also be translated as 'horns'—karan versus keren. When Saint Jerome translated the Old Testament into Latin, he thought no one but Christ should glow with rays of light—so he advanced the secondary translation. And that's how Michelangelo carved his Moses. With horns."

In all the excitement, I don't think I even sensed what was happening. The Hypnerotomachia had slunk back into my life, ferrying me across a river I never intended to cross. All that stood in our way was figuring out the significance of Saint Jerome, who had applied the Latin word cornuta to Moses, thus giving him horns. But for the following week, that was a burden Paul happily took upon himself. Beginning that night, and continuing for some time, I was only a hired gun, his last resort against the Hypnerotomachia. I thought it was a position I could keep, a distance I could maintain from the book, letting Paul play the middleman. And so, as he returned to Firestone, white-hot with the possibilities of what we'd found, I went off and made another discovery of my own. Still strutting after my encounter with Francesco Colonna, I can only imagine the impression I made on her.
